NEARING A RECORD. Bill Swanson, director of operations for the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation, has reason to be pleased this month. Swanson expects more than 90,000 tons of slab to be produced on the company's continuous slab caster in June, which would be a new record. He also expects the company to sell more than 125,000 tons of steel of all types this month, the highest amount since March, 1982.

July 4 carnival opens Thursday

By DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

The Fourth of July celebration at Wilson Park will open Thursday with carnival rides and concessions from 6 to 11 p.m. and will also feature the men's and women's slow pitch tournaments.

Carnival matinees are planned from 1 to 5 p.m. on Friday, July 1, and Sunday, July 3. Regular hours of 6 to 11 p.m. will be observed on each of the holiday nights.

The men's and women's softball tournaments will be played each day with the final competition scheduled for Monday.

For those interested in music a County-Western band known as "Love N' Stars" will play Friday and a Polka Band and Howard Bolton and the Alleycats will perform on Saturday.

Special and unusual gifts may be purchased at the Crafts Booth, where articles created by area residents will be exhibited from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 3, in the ice rink.

To complete the festive atmosphere, area organizations will man booths providing a variety of foods, drinks and games.

Tentatively, the list of participants includes St. Joseph Booster Club, which will sell soft drinks; Alton Pepsi Cola will open its Pepsi Challenge bus; the Granite City Amateur Hockey Association serving soft drinks; the Animal Protective Association is to sell pretzels; Explorer Post 1083 will sell nachos; and Rutkowski soccer team will provide fish sandwiches.

Other services offered for the celebration will be portraits by Gloria Spence; snow cones by Cub Pack 19; lemonade shakes by the Moose Lodge; pastries, Knights of Columbus; corn dogs by Parents Without Partners; pork steak sandwiches by Raiders softball team; sausage sandwiches the Italian American Club, and Mexican food offered by the Mexican Honorary Commission.

A dunking booth will be set up by Sammy's flag football team; "beat the goalie" game by Quad-City Soccer Association; chocolate covered bananas will be sold by the Granite City Society for Crippled Children; ice cream products by the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce; funnel cakes by Granite City Jaycees, and shish kebabs by Lord Nelson's softball team.

The Venice Park Board will meet at 7 tonight in special session to discuss the Fourth of July celebration there, the July 2 parade and other carnival rides and events.

Although many people think of the holiday weekend as a time for fun, there also is the serious side to think of, such as driving when tired or under the influence of alcohol and playing with fireworks.

The Illinois State Police will again participate in the National Combined Accident Reduction Effort Operation (CARE) during the Independence Day holiday period, which begins at 6 p.m. Friday, July 1, and ends at midnight, Monday, July 4. The program, initiated in 1977 by Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana, has been expanded to include all 48 contiguous states.

Parents are being reminded that this year, it is predicted that 1,500 children will suffer eye injuries because they were allowed to play with fireworks and some of these children will be permanently blinded, warns the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Edgar T. Britton, executive director of the society said, "A child's eyes are not the only sources of concern when fireworks are involved. There are also those cases where a child has lost fingers or even a whole hand because of fireworks."

The annual fireworks display at Wilson Park will begin at 9 p.m. Monday, July 4.

Channel 9 will celebrate America's birthday with an evening of music and for those who wish to stay at home, the program will start the night with the Beach Boys 20th Anniversary Special at 7 p.m. and at 8 p.m., A Capitol Fourth-1983 will be aired.

For an audience of thousands on the capitol lawn and millions watching television, E.G. Marshall hosts this 90-minute Fourth of July concert.

Although Fourth of July fireworks on the mall have captivated Washingtonians and visitors for many years, outdoor National Symphony Concerts at the base of the capitol began only four years ago.

GC Steel output at 15-month high

The Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp. expects to set new records this month for both the total steel tonnage shipped from the plant and for the amount of steel produced by the continuous slab caster.

The slab caster, which went into service in March, 1981, has shown continuous improvement since it opened and in April, 1983, set a record of 89,618 tons produced during the month.

This month, Bill Swanson, director of operations for the plant, predicts the output will top 90,000 tons, setting the new record.

He credits the crews of the caster, saying they have mastered "a complicated operation," accounting for the increased production.

Although there still are 440 persons on layoff status from Granite City Steel, production is increasing as the economy continues to improve.

Total shipping of steel from the mill is expected to be the highest this month since March, 1982, when 134,000 tons of steel of all types were shipped from the Granite City plant. This month, it is estimated that 125,000 tons will be shipped. Total shipping includes finished, unfinished, galvanized and other forms of steel, as well as scraps and miscellaneous steel.

The record prior to March, 1982, was in August, 1981, when 137,000 tons of steel were shipped.

The increased levels of production and shipping are showing that the optimism recently of steel experts was not wrong. One of these experts is Lillian B. Green, a former GC Steel and National Steel Corp. analyst. Following is her prediction of better times ahead for steelmakers and steelworkers, particularly in light of the July 1 tax cut and other developments that could stimulate economic recovery.

By LILLIAN B. GREEN
Industrial Consultant

For both the economy and the steel industry, a case can be made for optimism.

The nation's economy is finally at a stage where some optimism is justified.

Child restraint law begins Friday

By NANCY WEILL
of the Press-Record

The Child Passenger Protection Act, effective Friday, July 1, seems to be the source of some confusion in the Quad-City area concerning what ages are involved, who must comply and what constitutes an "approved" child restraint device.

The state law requires that children from birth to age 2 ride in an approved child-restraint device and that children ages 4 to 6, must be restrained in a device or seat belt. Three-year-olds are in a gray area, the way the bill is written.

From July 1, 1983, to June 30, 1984, children ages 2 through less than 4, won't be required to ride in a restraint ing device. Effective July 1, 1984, children who are age 2 through younger than 4, will have to ride in an approved restraint device.

The law is an effort by state legislators to reduce the number of injuries and fatalities to children who ride unrestrained in vehicles.

Only parents and legal guardians with state residency driving their own vehicles with Illinois license plates must comply with the law.

"Approved" devices are stamped as such and parents and legal guardians should look for such a marking before purchasing a restraint, officials advise.

For those who are still confused about the act, there isn't much time to

Two burned in fire

Two women were burned and one is in critical condition as a result of a fire at 10:45 a.m. Saturday in the kitchen at 3307 Kirkpatrick Homes.

Mrs. Carmen Johnson, 23, of 3307 Kirkpatrick Homes, was cleaning the kitchen and was exposed to an open flame and sustained burns to her face, shoulders and upper body, according to the firemen. She was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and was transferred immediately to the Burn Center at St. John Mercy Hospital, West St. Louis County, where she was listed in critical condition today.

Her mother, Mrs. Donna Frazier, was in the kitchen at the time of the fire and her feet and legs were burned severely, according to an official report. She was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

Granite City firemen said there was smoke coming from an upper window when they arrived. They were at the scene until 11:35 a.m. and estimated damage to the apartment and its contents at $10,000.

New GC trash service to take over on Friday

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

A smooth changeover is expected as Granite City's newly-contracted refuse collection firm takes to the streets Friday.

Most residents should notice little change in their trash collections with the emphasis by Allied Disposal Inc., St. Louis, to keep policies and schedules close to those already familiar to homeowners and businessmen.

Mayor Paul Schuler is expected to sign the refuse collection contract this week.

Charles Bovier, Allied Disposal spokesman, said his firm's trucks, with two-man crews, will travel the same routes and observe, as closely as possible, the same time schedule as the present collector, Milam East Hauling Division of SCA Services. SCA is expected to continue to offer private hauling services to the area. Allied will likewise be offering private commercial services.

Pickups will be made between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., except in emergency situations such as severe weather. Bovier asks that residents have their refuse on the curb or alley (based on past pickup locations) by 7 a.m. on the day collections are made.

In addition to picking up the standard three 30-gallon cans each week per household, Allied Disposal will collect large and bulky items left along the curb or alley during its regular weekly residential collections. The firm also will collect normal yard wastes of brush and cut lumber—if cut and tied in bundles not exceeding 50 pounds in weight or six feet in length.

Allied will pick up the larger items in concession to the 24-mile distance residents would have to travel to the Belleville landfill.

No automobile parts, concrete, bricks, dirt, rock or roofing materials will be accepted. Such material will be accepted at the company's Laidlaw Waste Systems Landfill in Belleville, it is expected under the new contract that residents will have to pay per load of refuse they take to the landfill themselves.

During holidays, pickups will be made on the following day with subsequent pickups that week bumped back one day. For example, collections normally set for next Monday, July 4, will be made Tuesday, July 5, with all other pickups set back a day.

Residents with questions about collections may contact the Allied Disposal St. Louis office toll-free by dialing 877-9801.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer said that for businesses to be eligible for services equivalent to those offered residents, representatives should contact his office immediately to be included on the collection schedule. This applies to new businesses, as well as those that are being serviced by the current city contract.

Brimberry sentence, 10 years

By PAT HAY LUTZ
for the Press-Record

Former Stix and Co. Vice President Thomas Brimberry sat expressionless Friday as U.S. District Court Judge William Beatty of Granite City handed down the maximum 10-year sentence for two counts of obstructing justice in the investigation into the $76 million embezzlement scheme which destroyed Stix.

Brimberry, a former Granite Cityan, was convicted in May of telling Arthur Miller Jr., of Granite City and Jerry Maeras of Madison to destroy records pertaining to the respective forged Stix accounts.

Judge Beatty said that he was giving Brimberry the maximum sentence because, "We have to consider the

Book studies Monks Mound, Piasa Bird

Monks Mound, Southeast of Horseshoe Lake is among the attractions featured in "Trails To Illinois Heritage," authored by Harry Black, a historic travel guide of the state of Illinois.

Black, not being content with just American history, gives his readers some little-known facts about the prehistory of the Prairie State.

Searching through the archives, the author discovered that the prehistoric Indians had built 10 stonewall enclosures in the hills of Southern Illinois. Most of these structures were built on high bluffs. Artifacts found at these sites indicate that they were constructed between 600 and 900 A.D.

Scholars still are pondering the reason for the building of the stone fences. Evidence suggests that they could have been used as defensive fortifications, animal traps, animal corrals, or for ceremonial purposes. A replica of one of the stonewalls is found in Giant City State Park south of Carbondale.

Black writes enthusiastically about the Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site. Here he found the locale of the largest prehistoric Indian city north of Mexico. Climbing on top of Monks Mound, the largest earthen work in the New World, the author was awestruck by the immensity of the 100 foot high manmade hill.

He directs his readers to the site of the still famous prehistoric Indian painting known as the Piasa Bird. Discovered by Father Marquette and Louis Joliet while they were floating down the Mississippi River in 1673, the picture depicts a flying monster that supposedly lived in one of the caves along the high river bluff near Alton. According to legend, the bird terrified and at times killed the prehistoric people in the area. The demon was finally destroyed, so the tale goes, through the use of a human baited trap and poisoned arrows.

Black found out the original Piasa Bird painting was destroyed by highway construction in 1870. Although quite faded, the latest reproduction of the picture can still be seen on the river bluff off of the Great River Road (McAdams Highway) northwest of Alton.

One critic commenting on Black's Illinois book has stated that the author gives his readers a choice. They can take the main highways to the more famous Illinois historic attractions or they can take the state's byways to the lesser known, but historically interesting locations. Personally he liked Black's off the beaten path sites because he was able to gain a new perspective of his home state through them.

"Trails To Illinois Heritage" is available or can be ordered from most book stores for $5.50 or can be purchased direct from HMB Publications, 708 Morris Ave., Hammond, Ind. 46324, for $5.50 plus 65-cents for postage and handling.

2 GC MEN ARRESTED AFTER MADISON FIGHT

Two Granite City men were arrested following a fight in Madison last week. Charles E. Rhoads Jr., 20, of 2316 Angela Drive and Timothy P. Guffey, 25, of 2525 Northridge, who also listed a St. Louis address, were charged with disorderly conduct and illegal transportation of liquor.

It was alleged that the two drove around the corner at Twelfth Street and Greenwood Avenue and yelled obscenities at Morris Ricketts Sr. and his son, Moe, both of 1036 Greenwood St.

Ricketts said that Rhoads and Guffey exited the car. A fight allegedly took place between Ricketts and Rhoads.

Police allege that a case of beer, with some bottles open, was found in the car Rhoads and Guffey drove.

Guffey was released on $175 cash bond and Rhoads was released on $102.

GERANIUM PLANTS, are accepted by Mrs. Jo Meyer, left, chairman of the Beautification Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, from Gene Losch. The Losch Farms donated 450 plants to be used to beautify the Quad City area and have been delivered by Mrs. Meyer to each city.

Losch Farms donates geraniums to area

Gene Losch of Losch Farms donated approximately 450 geranium plants to the Beautification Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce to be planted in the Quad-City area.

The plants were presented to Mrs. Jo Meyer, chairman of the committee, who divided the gift for the Granite City Park District to use here, and to Madison for planting at the Recreation Center and for the Madison businessmen who plan to use groups of the geraniums along Madison Avenue.

Pontoon Beach decided to plant the flowers on the grounds around the police station there and Venice will use the spring and summer varieties for the lawn at the city hall and Recreation Center. Mitchell also was recipient of the plants and has not yet decided where they will be used.

Losch Farms is a family owned business since the late 1940's. They grow and sell pumpkins, melons, sweet corn, strawberries, vegetables and bedding plants. Their latest project is Bee Keeping Supplies and retail and wholesale of honey.

File three burglary counts against two

Scott L. Taylor, 18, of 2545 Lynch Ave. and Ronald E. Nelson, 17, of 2220 Orville Ave., were each charged with three counts of burglary in informational documents issued by the Madison County state's attorney's office.

Both appeared before Associate Judge George Moran Jr., who set bond at $1,500 cash on each and issued mittimus. They were transferred Wednesday to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

The charges relate to alleged burglaries, occurring at 12:20 a.m. Monday, at the Pontoon Plaza Apartments and of a storage shed belonging to William Laub, 2741 Harvey Place.

Officers were called to the area upon a report of a burglary in progress with two men allegedly seen driving tractors, owned by the apartment complex, north behind the buildings.

The men allegedly were pushing the tractors onto a gravel road that runs parallel to the railroad tracks, about 300 yards north of the complex, when police arrived.

Each tractor, valued at $4,000, had been in a maintenance garage, owners Leo Wolf and Virgil Simpson reported. Entry apparently was gained by breaking the glass in an overhead door.

After spotting the officers, the men ran south through the fields back toward the apartments and were ordered to halt. A chase ensued and a warning shot was fired in the air.

One man, later identified as Nelson, was seen lying down in some weeds and was captured, while the second man ran into nearby woods.

Taylor, the second suspect, was brought to police headquarters from home at 1:45 a.m. Monday. Officers also found numerous items, including a chainsaw, cassette player, wall clock and Coleman lantern, in the rear yard of the apartments.

The property belonged to William Laub, 2741 Harvey Place. A storage shed, assigned to Laub, located in the basement of a building, had been burglarized, it was discovered.

$50 food vouchers offered the jobless

By JUDY TAPLIN

If you are unemployed and live in Madison County, you may qualify for up to $50 in free food.

This is because the federal "jobs bill," through the National Food and Shelter Program, has awarded Madison County $137,170. The award was made in June.

Unemployed persons who qualify will receive food vouchers in exchange for showing a receipt indicating that they paid a utility or pharmacy bill. The amount of the food voucher will equal the amount of the receipt shown — unless the utility or pharmacy bill is more than $50.

In other words, if a person produced a receipt showing that he had paid a $47 electric bill, he would receive a voucher for $47 in food. If he produced a receipt for payment of a $100 electric bill, he would receive $50 in food vouchers.

Applicants must also provide an unemployment card issued after June 1, 1981.

The federal jobs bill funds were applied for by the River Bend United Way. A local board selected three organizations in the county — the Protestant Welfare Association, the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission and the Salvation Army — to disburse the funds.

Residents in the Quad-City area may apply to the Protestant Welfare Association.

Applications will be taken beginning Tuesday, July 5, between the hours of 9 a.m. and noon, and 1 to 4 p.m.

Applications will be taken only on Mondays and Tuesdays.

The Protestant Welfare Association has the responsibility of disbursing $60,140 of the total $137,170 to residents of Collinsville, Nameoki, Granite City, Venice, Edwardsville and Chouteau townships.

The EOC has the responsibility of disbursing $34,560 to 12 townships in eastern Madison County.

In Jarvis and St. Jacob townships, where the EOC is distributing the funds, persons may apply at the township offices on the following dates only:

— Jarvis Township: Monday, July 11 noon to 4 p.m.
— St. Jacob Township: Tuesday, July 5, noon to 4 p.m.

The Salvation Army will disburse the funds in Alton.

The disbursement will continue at the Protestant Welfare Association every Monday and Tuesday until the funds are used.

Bill Crews said he does not think there will be any money left by then.

The federal jobs bill, passed primarily for the purpose of putting people back to work, included $50 million for emergency food and shelter.

Crews said it was designed to aid "street people," those who have been forced out of their homes. But he said in this area, the biggest problem is the inability of many people to pay their utility and pharmacy bills.

Since the federal money wasn't designated to help with such bills, the local board figured out a tradeoff: The people would pay their utility or pharmacy bills, and the matching amount in federal money would pay for some food.

Only one person in a family can apply for the food vouchers. Crews said phone bill receipts are not acceptable.

DAV Chapter 53 approves donations

Members of Quad-City Chapter 53, Disabled American Veterans, approved donations to the National League of Families of American Prisoners of War and to Project Help, a local organization dedicated to providing food and clothing to the unemployed in this area, during a meeting held at the DAV Hall.

Chapter 53 delegates who attended the DAV State Convention in Collinsville, submitted a report of the activities and programs of the convention. They announced that Lawrence Lockhart will serve as a member of the Department of Illinois Finance Committee and Joseph Heffley will serve on the membership committee.

Delegates attending the sessions were, Andrew Gilchoff, commander of the chapter, and Lockhart, George Krpan, Roland Fiedler, Heffley and Lawrence McGuffee.

The commander presided over the meeting and announced 35 people visited the DAV field service van on June 10 at the DAV parking lot. Scholarships for 13 students were approved upon the recommendation of the scholarship committee, he added.

Those receiving the awards will be announced at a later date the commander noted.

Raleigh Paul is still on the sick list but has returned home after being hospitalized at Jefferson Barracks Hospital, Lockhart announced.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

3ST. LOUIS YOUTHS CHARGED WITH THEFT

Three St. Louis youths were arrested there and returned to Madison last week where they allegedly had stolen a car.

Demetrius D. Dorsey, Keith L. Owens and Joel Johnson, all 17 years of age, were charged with motor vehicle theft and held at the Madison County Jail on $15,000 bond.

They were arrested at 12th and Clark streets in St. Louis in a car they allegedly stole from the home of Charles Rockett, 965 W. Madison St.

Police said the trunk lock was punched out, the steering wheel column was damaged, CB radio and speaker were missing and extra transmission fluid and a filter were gone.

Nationals challenge guitarist

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Todd Jones, 17, isn't planning on taking too much luggage when he travels to Anaheim, Calif., in August, but holding a prominent place among what he does take along will be his prized guitar.

In California, the Granite City youth will be competing at the national level of the Assemblies of God Teen Talent Search, a nationwide music competition.

The final segment of the prestigious contest will be conducted during the Assemblies of God General Council convention, scheduled for the first week in August.

Todd achieved status as a national finalist by winning first place in the classical guitar segment of the Great Lakes Regional Contest.

Specifically, he captured top honors for his performance in the instrumental solo strings division, a section of the contest featuring musicians on guitar, violin, viola and cello.

Todd's selections included "Pilgrim's Flight" by Phil Keaggy, and his own arrangement of a classic old hymn, "What a Friend."

Competing with the youth in the regional event were winners from contests staged earlier in a seven-state area.

The local guitarist is the son of Kenneth and Mary Jones, 309 Wilson Park Lane, and will be a senior this year at Granite City High School.

Initially, Todd won first place in district competition at the First Assembly of God Church in Granite City. He then advanced to and won the Southern Illinois Sectional contest, held at Tri-City Park Tabernacle in February.

His next achievement was a successful performance at the Alton Abundant Life Christian Center in March when Todd captured first place state honors.

An opportunity to compete at the regional level came with his state victory and he now progresses to the ultimate quest for musical recognition of his talent, which will present itself at the national finals.

Nearly a 1,000 young people competed in the first stages of the national talent search.

Todd has been playing music since receiving his first guitar as a Christmas present when he was 8 years old.

When Todd was 13, he and several young friends formed the nucleus that started several informal bands, with the aspiring musicians playing their music mostly for other friends.

Since that time, the contest winner became lead guitarist with the widely-acclaimed Chapelaires singing group, and still serves as accompanist for the ensemble.

Previously, Todd was a member of the "Phantom" rock group and currently is guitarist with a contemporary music group, which appeared Saturday night at the Round House in Wood River.

Todd seems to be following in the musical footsteps of his older brother, the Rev. Kenneth Jones of Dublin, Calif., who writes music.

Among Rev. Jones' song-writing accomplishments is "Speeding the Light," a song which was recorded by Pat Boone for an album featuring the national contest winners.

Those who have heard Todd play praise his musical talents and note that his enjoyment of music is obvious and always is well received by an audience.

CLASSICAL GUITARIST Todd Jones,

17, winner of the Great Lakes Regional Contest in the Assemblies of God Teen Talent Search at Springfield, Ill., is shown performing at the First Assembly of God Church here. He now advances to the national finals at Anaheim, Calif. The Granite City High School senior is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones, 309 Wilson Park Lane. Nearly a 1,000 young people took part in the competition's earlier stages.

Says FAA will give Illinois fair consideration for center

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) has been assured by Federal Aviation Administrator Lynn Helms that factors which would unfairly favor Missouri will not play a role in the site selection of a new FAA Flight Service Station (FSS) that will serve Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri.

"We are now convinced that the competition for the site will be conducted in a fair and impartial manner," Percy said after the meeting in his office with Helms, Senator Alan Dixon (D-Ill.) and Representatives Bob Michel (R-Peoria), Dan Crane (R-Danville) and Dick Durbin (D-Springfield).

The FAA is seeking competitive bids for the Illinois Missouri FSS, which will employ 80 and have an annual payroll of $2 million. Competitors include Springfield, Quincy, Mt. Vernon, Dacatur and Charleston-Mattoon in Illinois and St. Louis in Missouri.

Percy and members of the Illinois delegation at the meeting expressed their concern that because the FAA's Central Regional Office in Kansas City, Mo., was to have reviewed the bids and recommended a site to Helms, a location site in Missouri would be favored. They proposed and Helms agreed that the Great Lakes Regional Office in Chicago should recommend the site in tandem with the central office.

"The bottom line is that the FAA will choose the site that provides the greatest savings to the taxpayers," Percy said. "The FAA's decision will be based on the costs of telecommunications, utilities, transportation and space. If a city in Illinois is the lowest bidder, it will win the competition."

The new FSS will be one of

RESIDENCE DAMAGED, BURGULARS TAKE ITEMS

Burglars entered the home of Christine Kmucha of the 1500 block of Second Street, Madison, last week, ransacked the premises, stole items and did significant damage to property.

Police said the burglars entered through a basement window. Every room in the home was ransacked. A large fish tank was overturned on the living room floor, tables and chairs also were overturned.

GC property taxes may remain stable

Granite City taxpayers may experience little or no increase in the city's share of their tax bill next year, predicts Second Ward Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman, finance committee chairman.

The council will meet in a special committee meeting beginning at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday to hold one of its concluding sessions on the 1983-84 budget. At that meeting, aldermen will try to determine what levy will be needed to support the budget.

"It looks like it (tax levy) might be pretty stable," Schuman commented last week.

This year's city tax rate is $13.37 per $100 assessed evaluation, based on a citywide valuation of $2.585

per $100 of assessed value. After tomorrow's budget meeting, Schuman said he expects little change in the budget from tentative figures released in late April. Those figures included a $7.6 general fund budget, that stripped of all "extras," would give the city a margin of financial breathing room.

One aspect of this year's budget yet to be settled is the question of raises for city employees. All city wages were frozen last year.

New negotiations committee chairman, Sixth Ward Alderman Woodrow "Woody" Moad, had called a committee meeting for last Thursday night to get aldermen's opinions on the raise issue, but Moad said the meeting failed to gather a quorum.

Moad wishes to hold comment on the matter of "Whether the budget passes employee increases until or not with those same after the budget meeting figures I'm not sure."

"There are some monies available for raises," Moad commented. "Whether the budget passes employee increases until or not with those same after the budget meeting figures I'm not sure."

Fire commissioners seek permission to skip testing date for fire department

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Granite City fire and police commissioners are asking permission not to accept new fire department applications this year. Commissioners want to extend for another year the current eligibility list used to select city firemen.

The present two-year-old list will expire next month and commissioners say the $500 cost of administering a new qualifying test, added to the few fire department hirings, are the two main reasons for the request. Despite four vacancies due to retirements since July 1981, when the test was last administered, only two firemen have been hired from the current list of 33 candidates.

Weldon Burch, commission chairman, stated the vacancies have not been filled because of the financial condition of the city. "This created an unfair position for those on the present eligibility list," he said in a letter to the council.

The second of the two hirings in the last two years occurred Tuesday, when the council approved the appointment of Jeffrey C.

Reiter as probationary fireman. The appointment filled a department vacancy left by the retirement of George Smolich, assistant fire chief.

In the past, city residents could try for a place on the hiring list through oral, written and physical agility tests administered every two years.

Candidates are hired in order of their test score averages that include extra points for armed forces duty.

Among the top five applicants on the current list, three are working as city emergency medical technicians. In a May 26 letter to the council, Burch wrote that the state law requires a new eligibility list to be written every two years. Seventh Ward Alderman Michael Modrusic cited the letter as a reason to investigate the legality of the commissioners' request before granting the extension. City Attorney John Papa said he will review the city's right as a home rule unit to extend the eligibility period.

Speaking at last week's council meeting, Commissioner Norbert Sudholt anticipated "no problem at all... (I) don't think there's a problem as far as state is concerned."

Commissioner Elmer Miller said giving the test has cost about $500 each time in the past, regardless of the number of applicants taking the test. The money covers the combined expense of purchasing test materials, renting the high school auditorium and hiring a physical education teacher to give the agility test.

The tests usually attract about 65 to 125 applicants, Miller commented. He believes the city's high unemployment figures encourage the high numbers of applicants.

Sudholt said he anticipates an even higher number to apply this year, if the tests are administered, and cited possibly increased test costs as another reason to wait until 1984 to readminister the test.

Aldermen are expected to make a decision on the request at Tuesday's 8 p.m. council meeting.

Robbed, beaten on 19th St. overpass

Mark Yates, 2118 Dewey Ave., was beaten and robbed last week while walking west on the 19th Street overpass.

Yates told police three men attacked him, knocking him to the ground and beating him before taking his wallet containing $50.

One of the assailants wore a long-sleeve flannel shirt, tennis shoes and jeans. He was about 5 feet, 7 inches tall, weighed 135 pounds, was of medium build and had shoulder-length dark hair.

The victim was suffering pain to his neck and back, but declined immediate medical attention, reports said. He had been at the Barrel Tavern, 19th Street and Delmar Avenue, just prior to the incident, he said.

A search of the area was made by officers, but the assailants were not located.

About two hours later, a man dressed in a long sleeve flannel shirt, despite the 70-plus degree temperature and humidity, who also fit the description given police in height and build, was taken into custody for investigation of robbery outside the 7-Eleven Store, 19th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue.

The suspect was released at 2:15 p.m. Monday, pending further investigation.

Some things are hard to report

Suicide. Never a pretty word and not a subject we cover with enjoyment.

The last two weeks, marred with several suicides, has been a period we are glad to have behind us.

Obviously, we have great sympathy for the families. Losing a loved one is extremely difficult. Losing one to suicide has to be even harder.

The frustrations of the families come through in their letters and discussions with us. We can only assume that your unfeeling printing of circumstances leading to (my son's) death was meant as a personal insult to myself and family," one father wrote.

"If printing what you printed would have helped one human being, I would have said to go ahead, but it didn't," the mother of a suicide victim wrote.

Some of us at the Press-Record have lost close friends over the printing of suicides. We don't enjoy it. However, whether we like it or not, we are a newspaper and, with that, goes the obligation to print the news, good and bad. We absolutely cannot establish a policy of "Print all the news, EXCEPT..."

Obviously, there are some people who are going to disagree with us. We hope to hear from those who feel otherwise, as well as those who agree. A debate on this controversial issue can only be healthy.

In the meantime, we will continue to bring our readers as complete a newspaper as possible, carrying the bad news, along with the good, and hope the families of suicide victims and all those affected by the bad news we have to print will understand that we are human, we are compassionate, but we have a job to do — a job that is not always pleasant.

Regrettable Supreme Court decree

The Supreme Court decision last week that struck down the legislative veto was an unpleasant surprise. The ruling strips Congress of the power to overturn a presidential veto, which has been a crucial facet of the system of checks and balances.

But the high court ruled by a 5-4 vote that the legislative veto is unconstitutional. The majority opinion held that the founding fathers never intended for Congress to have veto power.

That might be true, but we believe that the intent of the founding fathers should not be a major factor in rendering such decisions because those who originated the Constitution wanted to establish laws for the country during its beginning years.

America has changed a great deal since then and we believe that the Supreme Court must consider the attitudes and influences of the country as it exists today.

Considering that Congress first wrote the legislative veto into a statute more than 50 years ago and has attached it to legislation with increasing frequency during recent years, means to us that a need for such power exists.

Further, we believe that there must be a system to check presidential decisions. He and his advisors are, after all, but a fragment of the entire system of government. The three branches of government — executive, legislative and judicial — must have a system with which to check each other.

Because the veto power has been written into many laws in recent years, the decision cumulatively invalidated the provisions of more legislation than any other single Supreme Court ruling.

The real threat is that the impact of the decision will not be determined until the first test case occurs. Only after the president has issued a veto upon which Congress cannot act will the real substance of the ruling come forth.

The decision will affect major statutes, including the War Powers Resolution of 1973 that gives the president unlimited powers to send troops for 60 days without a declaration of war, however, Congress had power to order their removal. The ruling also affects the Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act of 1980, the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978, international trade laws and budget laws.

We believe the ruling affords the president far too much power regarding certain laws. Further, we believe that the decision allows too much potential for abuse.

It is a regrettable ruling, in our opinion.

A salute to the SCA garbage men

Garbage seldom provides the subject matter for interesting editorials, but it seems only fitting for Granite Cityans to say goodbye to people who have served us well in a less than pleasant job.

The Milan East Division of SCA Services lost the contract to pick up garbage in the city beginning this Friday. Allied Disposal will take over the task.

Milan East provided friendly and, at times, generous service to the city's residents, although company officials did, at times, butt heads with the city government, particularly over the dumping of large amounts of sludge from the sewage treatment plant at the SCA landfill.

To the residents, the men on the trash trucks were always pleasant, efficient and lenient. The contract said they could only pick up three garbage cans full, but they were willing to bend, picking up four and even five at some homes, balanced by only one or two at others.

They picked up a few things not in the contract, which might have gotten them in trouble with their bosses, but won them favor with the residents.

We hope Allied Disposal will work as well with the residents. "Sticking to the letter of the contract" could cause difficulties for some.

We will miss the close proximity of the SCA landfills on Chouteau Island and in the Bend Road area, which were free to most city residents, and can only hope that Allied will make good on its promise to provide adequate alternatives for the disposal of old tires and other large items the trucks will not pick up.

We doubt that many Quad-Cityans will drive to the Allied landfill in Belleville and fear that lack of a handy landfill will further complicate the problem of trash being dumped in rural areas or stacked in yards in the city.

Welcome Allied. Farewell SCA Services. SCA has done good job and deserves bit of the hat. We hope for a smooth transition July 1.

Gee, only 75 percent is wasted

Of every $4 in federal loan subsidies intended to help first-time home buyers, only about $1 actually helps first-time buyers, according to a recent congressional audit. The rest, the General Accounting Office says, is absorbed by lawyers, well-to-do investors, and other middlemen; and of the 25 percent of the money that they don't absorb, most goes to "middle-income households who probably could have purchased homes without assistance."

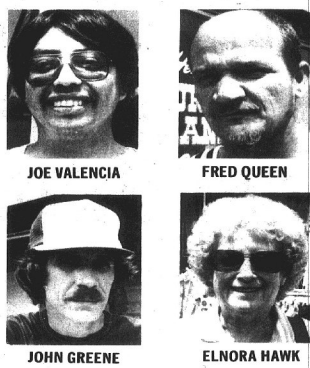

Outraged, congressmen have introduced a flurry of bills to correct the problem. Some call for tighter lending requirements; others would abolish the tax exemption on some kinds of mortgage bonds altogether.

We wonder what all the fuss is about. Given the record of most federal efforts to "help the poor," bureaucratic overhead of only 75 percent makes it a model program. Maybe Congress should see if it can bring other relief operations up to the same level.

A Press-Record reporter talked to people at the sidewalk sales and asked how they feel about Gov. James Thompson's proposed state income tax increase and if they believe a large increase is necessary.

Joe Valencia, Granite City

"No, as a homeowner I don't think so. If you own a home and have bills, you're living on a budgeted income and now they want an increase. I want to know what happened to all the money from the lottery, horse racing and bingo."

Fred Queen, Granite City

"I think it stinks. The economy is scrapping the bottom, nobody has jobs. Why doesn't he (Thompson) cut his salary in half and give it to us?"

John Greene, Granite City

"I can't understand how they can raise taxes. I can't understand what happened to all the money from the lottery. It was supposed to go for schools and they're cutting teachers right and left. They cut the unemployment (payment) rate."

Elнора Hawk, Granite City

"No, I absolutely do not (agree with the tax proposal). I think maybe the state might be having money problems and might need a little increase, but I think he's going completely overboard."

Bankers oppose Sears attempt to enter field

To the Editor:

The Illinois Bankers Association is deeply concerned about the pending action of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (FHLBB) and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC) in their deliberation over the sale or reorganization of First Federal Bank of Chicago.

We believe that the FHLBB and the FSLIC are acting incorrectly and imprudently in considering that this multi-billion dollar institution with all of its branches be purchased by Sears Roebuck & Company. It is the opinion of this association that neither federal regulator has sufficiently explored the options available to them.

The board of directors of First Federal has recently been reformed and has not had time to affect any change in this depository institution which might permit it to continue to operate as an Illinois-based association, rather than to become a tool of a major retailer's bid for depository institution market entry.

The "Garn-St. Germain" bill, which permitted this kind of acquisition only in emergency situations, is being used by the FHLBB and the FSLIC for purposes other than that for which it was intended. I am sure that Congress wished that every option should be explored before an acquisition of this type would be permitted. That has not occurred.

We hope your readers will contact both the FHLBB and the FSLIC and express the need for an extension of time, in order that a plan might be formulated to permit First Federal to operate as a Chicago-owned savings institution.

Finds tax on churches, schools 'outrageous'

To the Editor:

I just can't believe Granite City thinks it is so big it can tax God! Utility taxes on schools and churches is outrageous.

I'm a native of this city, but not too proud of it lately.

We seem to be famous for abortion, big time theft, taverns open until 2 a.m. People are afraid to go for a walk any more after the sun goes down.

Instead of crying to God for help, we're letting them stick a tax on churches and schools are our only hope in these times.

How can you put a tax on the House of God when he owns the world? He created the utilities you want to tax Him on.

As for the schools, I think they have suffered enough. We pay enough property taxes in this wonderful city to support 10 more schools!

Feels free buses for a week was a bad idea

To the Editor:

The week of June 13 to 19 was set aside to show Madison County how much easier it was to ride the bus than car. Ha!

The Monday-Friday service was filled with drivers who ran late and refused to pick up passengers. The Saturday service was the worse I have ever seen in my 40 years of riding public transportation! The buses were 1 1/2 to 2 hours apart on the McKinley Bridge Bus, in spite of a schedule that tells me they should be 40 to 45 minutes. There were only two runs on the East Granite City, but in the early morning, just in time to strand the elderly in downtown and Crossroads Shopping Centers with no way to get home. It took me four hours for a two hour trip in the morning and three and one-half hours for a trip in the afternoon, most of it standing on the corner in the hot sun waiting for a bus that did not come.

If Bi-State cannot give better service than that, I suggest we cut off all money, fire the high-priced people who are running it and get someone who can!

Help! Doesn't anyone care about us, the people who have to use this so called "service"?

Supporters ask for time to save the SIUE Rape Center

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

One thing was certain Thursday night during a meeting called to protest budget slashes that could force the closing of the Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. — Supporters of the center are not going to sit idly by and watch the service die. That is, perhaps, the only certainty amid the current confusion.

Employees, members of the board of directors, victims of rape and sexual abuse, concerned citizens and representatives of law enforcement, agencies gathered at St. Paul United Church of Christ in Edwardsville to protest the cuts and decide what to do.

Last week, SIUE Vice President Barbara Tetters was the carrier of bad news when she told the center's director, Pamela Klein, that the university was cutting the center's budget and putting a freeze on the only full-time counseling position there.

The center had been warned that a cut was imminent and employees agreed with university officials to accept a $9,000 decrease. However, SIUE administrators now have decided to provide the center only $23,000 for fiscal year 1984, compared to $51,000 in 1983.

While center personnel said they don't want total support from SIUE, they urged university administrators to provide funding equal to last year's level to allow time for the center to seek grants and outside assistance.

"Two years ago SIUE supported us with nearly 100 percent of the budget," Maurine Sampson, the center administrator said. Employees there agree, she said, that SIUE shouldn't completely support the center. "We think that's fine. We agree with that."

But the problem is that employees thought they had three years to make up the difference the budget cut will make. Now, they have learned the cut will occur this year.

Further, the center staff has been fighting for a new building to take it out of the tiny house it occupies on Bluff Road. A different building seemed possible with the opening of the Multi-Purpose Facility, because space elsewhere in the university would be vacated when the coaching staff moves into the new office wing.

However, that possibility now seems nil, because the center has become a lower budget priority and there is some uncertainty as to when the gym will open, it was indicated at the Thursday night meeting.

"One week they promise us a new building. The next week they tell us they're going to shut our doors. That's how quickly it's happened," said Stephanie Robbins, a former Madison County assistant state's attorney, who, as a prosecutor of rape cases, worked with the center. She also is an honorary member of the center board of directors.

"The university has been arbitrary and capricious in this and their approach has been insensitive and stupid. I've never seen anything more arbitrary and capricious," she said angrily.

Mrs. Robbins suggested that the center could be saved for roughly the same cost as one of the SIUE administrators' salary. That comment drew both applause and laughter from the 20 people gathered to protest.

The meeting became emotional several times, particularly when victims spoke in support of the center. One woman tearfully told the group what the center had done for her after she was raped. "I started as a victim and I became a survivor. Without the center I wouldn't be a survivor," she said.

Several of those who spoke, including Mrs. Klein, argued that the need for the center is great. On a weekly basis, 38 children — the youngest being 2 — and 25 adult victims of rape and sexual abuse are counseled by center staff.

On a yearly basis, the center counsels nearly 300 people. That doesn't include weekly calls that come in of new cases, which could be from one to eight a week, Mrs. Klein said.

The paid center staff provides daily counseling, including group sessions, and volunteers operate a 24-hour hotline service for victims of rape and sexual abuse. There is a volunteer on call at all times.

Law enforcement agencies have utilized the center extensively and, in fact, often contact the staff as soon as a rape or sexual abuse victim contacts the police. Often, counselors meet victims at hospitals, where they are taken for examination immediately after the incident occurs.

Madison County Sheriff Emil Toffant said that his department is "100 percent behind the center."

Randy Rushing, an agent for the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation, said that one of the first rape cases he worked with was prosecuted by Mrs. Robbins. A 19-year-old woman was abducted, repeatedly raped and taken across three state lines, he said.

The woman was beaten severely, suffered a broken jaw and her eyes were swollen shut. During 10 days of hospitalization, a center counselor was with her the entire time, he said. "The DCI has yet to ask for assistance from this fine organization and get refused," he said.

The center provides victims with assistance that police officers can't give because of their workload, he said.

Budget cuts for the center amount to "a miscarriage of justice," Rushing contended.

Hospitals also work closely with the center and Dr. Gene Aragona, medical director of the emergency room at Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryville, gave support on behalf of Daniel Hicks, hospital administrator.

Aragona suggested that those assembled to protest might be wise to extend their support campaign to a statewide level.

Although SIUE administrators can set budgeting priorities, "that's not where the money comes from. The money actually comes from the state," he said. Aragona told the group that they should write protest letters to state legislators.

One woman agreed and challenged the community to raise the needed funds.

The center last year operated on a $90,000 budget, of which $73,000 was used for paid staff salaries, Miss Sampson said.

She explained that the salary portion might seem high, but the staff members work on a 24-hour basis. Presently, there is only one full-time counselor, a position supported by SIUE.

With the freeze, it is uncertain in what capacity that position will operate.

University administrators have indicated that the center is no longer a top priority, as it was in 1977 when it opened. The shift in priorities has left staff employees in a state of "flux" because they have no idea what the 1984 budget actually will be.

Because the center is a program at SIUE, it cannot operate as a separate not-for-profit entity, making it more difficult to obtain outside funding, Miss Sampson said.

Supporters argue that if SIUE continues funding, the center can become self-supporting. "We're not asking for permanent support. If they give us three years, I guarantee that Pam (Klein) will buy the university. I challenge the university to keep us open for three years, and then we'll give them money," Mrs. Robbins said.

"Somewhere, people have got to be the priority," she said.

Camping area open at Horseshoe Lake

A new camping area at Horseshoe Lake State Park was opened for public use by the Department of Conservation during the first week in June, according to Raymond J. Norbut, DOW's superintendent of public lands.

Construction of the camping area began about two years ago with funds appropriated by the Legislature in the 1981 fiscal year.

The Horseshoe Lake facility, near Granite City, has 29 graveled camping pads for trailers, 10 tent camping sites, a small overflow area for self-contained units, a sanitary dumping station, and two double pit toilets having hand-pumped water service.

No electrical service is available and the site is rated as a Class C camping area, for which a $3 nightly fee is charged.

Located on Horseshoe

Lake's island, accessible only by causeway, the new campground is the lone camp facility at the state park.

It also will serve patrons of two nearby state parks, Cahokia Mounds and Frank Holten, where camping has been eliminated.

Horseshoe Lake State Park, reached via Illinois 111 just north of I-55, encompasses 2,370 acres, 850 of which are water.

It has 3½ miles of hiking trails, a day-use area, picnic facilities, boat ramps, and bank fishing areas. Hunting also is permitted. Outboard motors up to 25 horsepower may be used on the lake.

Arrest 7 near scene of party

After being called four times in 3½ hours last week to an address at 2572 Northbridge, and requesting the participants at a party to reduce the noise level, officers finally arrested several persons charging all with disorderly conduct.

Booked on the disorderly charge were: Randall L. LeMaster, 20, of 2550 Benton St.; Jeffrey S. Wilkins, 19, of 2904 Saratoga Ave.; Jerry E. King, 18, of 2572 Northbridge; Charles S. Rhoads, 20, of 2516 Angalia Drive; Janice S. DuBoise, 17, of the 2509 block of Northbridge; and Timothy P. Guffey, 20, of 2525 Northbridge.

Miss DuBoise was released on notice to appear for a hearing and the others were freed after each posted a $32 cash bond. A juvenile girl was released to her parents without being charged.

After dispersing a large group at the early morning party, Glenn Alan Hutter, 18, of 2580 Northbridge, allegedly refused to go in his house and began yelling and screaming.

Hutter was warned repeatedly to go into the home, reports said, but was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct when he continued to make threatening remarks. The man appeared as if he had been in a fight, but declined to sign a complaint or discuss the incident, an officer said.

The concert will be held regardless of the weather. There is no admission fee. Students and adults still wishing to join the program are urged to attend the first practice for the next concert, Mrs. Bright said.

Grade school students through the eighth grade rehearse Mondays and Thursdays from 1 to 2 p.m. Adults and high school students rehearse 7 to 9 p.m., also Mondays and Thursdays.

All rehearsals are in the Granite City High School vocal room. Rehearsals for the next concert begins Thursday, June 30. Mrs. Kozielek will be taking over as director at that time. New members are welcome.

POSTS BOND ON TRESPASS CHARGE

Dannie Dean Peters, 25, of 2519 Jerden Ave., arrested last week on a charge of criminal trespass to property, was released after posting a $102 cash bond.

The charge stemmed from an incident in the 4900 block of Kirkpatrick Home, where Peters was warned to leave the vicinity of a residence at the occupants request, but allegedly returned and tried to get in the dwelling.

'Dying is a beautiful experience,' Elisabeth Kubler-Ross tells group

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

For many people, death is an ominous threat, a fearful dark area they would rather not consider, an expert told a gathering here during the weekend.

The fear is due to a lack of knowledge about death and the inability to truly know what happens in transitioning to many. Some people who believe in life after death are less fearful, confident that their spirits will exist on a higher plain of consciousness. Others believe there is nothing.

Only when death has been near can a person learn the experience, which need not be frightening, according to Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross, an international author, physician, psychiatrist, lecturer and researcher, who spoke Saturday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Dr. Ross, a pioneer in the controversial research of Near-Death Experience, said that once a person is close to death, he will never again fear dying. "Dying can be a very beautiful experience," she said.

For instance, a person who is blind will, during the experience of death, be able to see light, feel no pain, no anything they look upon.

While observing the scene of death—or near death—persons often report a feeling of contentment and serenity. Even if the circumstances surrounding the experience have been painful, no adverse feelings are present, she said.

And, of course, there is the shining light, often described in movies and books about a subject.

A bright, white light appears in the distance and persons close to dying report that they are drawn toward it.

As they approach the light, loved ones who have died appear and often talk to them, encouraging them, leaving the physical body," she said. It matters not how the person dies, all experience the same thing, her interviewers have stated.

During the second stage, subjects who have been close to death say they are totally aware of the scene of death. They can accurately describe the circumstances surrounding their near-death, including detailed descriptions of attempts to resuscitate them.

People knocked unconscious in accidents also can describe the scene as they watch from above. "They feel no pain, fear or anxiety," Dr. Ross contended.

Not only are those near death aware of actions that take place around them, but what the other people involved in the scene are thinking, she said.

And those whose bodies are damaged in some way see themselves "totally whole again. The body is actually perfect," she said.

For instance, a person who is blind will, during the experience of death, be able to see light, feel no pain, no anything they look upon.

While observing the scene of death—or near death—persons often report a feeling of contentment and serenity. Even if the circumstances surrounding the experience have been painful, no adverse feelings are present, she said.

And, of course, there is the shining light, often described in movies and books about a subject.

A bright, white light appears in the distance and persons close to dying report that they are drawn toward it.

As they approach the light, loved ones who have died appear and often talk to them, encouraging them, providing advice about which way the person should go.

"No human being can die alone," Dr. Ross said. As the spirit leaves the physical body, the person can think of someone miles and miles away and be there "in the speed of an instant," she said.

People interviewed who have been close to death often report that they see others who have died at the same time, particularly in the case of accidents. Children particularly mention names of those who actually died, she said.

Following disasters like fires, children often are able to name others who died during the incident and there is no way they could have known who died and who didn't, she said.

Those who return from near death, say that the light experience is bad because they are drawn toward it. They feel "total, absolute, unconditional love," she said.

As the light becomes brighter, the person must make a decision if he is going to come back into the world or return. According to Dr. Ross, the decision is a conscious choice over which the person has control.

Those who have committed a universal sin such as killing, will choose to come back into the world. But those who can't return to God with dirty hands. It's as simple as that," she contended.

People who have not fulfilled their purpose also will return, because "man was created to complete his physical mission in one lifetime," Dr. Ross explained.

But the experience of dying is the same, regardless of how each person has lived or what his religious beliefs include, she said.

If a decision is made to travel toward the light, the person leaves the physical phase and then will have knowledge of everything as he actually dies, she said.

Sometimes during their lives, most people have an out-of-body experience, usually while they are asleep, Dr. Ross said. While it may seem that they are dreaming, the experience is too real.

Such experiences can be observed in laboratory experiments, but she said that is far too dangerous.

Experimentation to measure out-of-body experiences is bad because "it's a very dangerous tool to fiddle around with, psychic energy. If you fool around with it, you can kill people," she said.

Dr. Ross told the group of her own out-of-body near-death experience that occurred last fall when she had a cardiac arrest. There was a wave of warmth from her toes to her head "like an ocean" she said.

During the experience, she told her sister, who was present, what was happening. But when Dr. Ross returned to her body, her sister said she hadn't heard anything.

Patients who are in comas often have similar out-of-body experiences, in which they can see what is happening, she said. In fact, Dr. Ross said that comatose patients are out of their bodies most of the time.

While reports of the experience of death have been widely reported, Dr. Ross vehemently defends them, citing examples of verification processes and using her own experience as evidence.

"Once you have been close to death, you will never, ever be afraid of dying," she said.

become acquainted with it before local law enforcement agencies start to crack down on violators.

The Illinois State Police fully intend to issue citations to violators and a spokesman says that the agency fully supports the new law.

However, Sgt. William Powers, of the District 11 office in Collinsville, said there still will be people who don't use restraints for children. "If people would use the seats, the restraint systems, there would be a very pronounced impact on the injury-death rate for children in accidents," he said.

Comparing the restraint devices to seat belts, which he said could reduce the fatality rate by as much as 50 percent if properly used on a regular basis, Powers suggested that the same sort of lackadaisical attitude could occur with the restraint seats.

The Illinois State Police probably won't be too sympathetic about individual attitudes concerning the devices. "It's stated in the law," Powers said and added that the act will be enforced beginning July 1.

Warnings will be issued for a first offense and the second offense carries a $25 fine and 30 days in jail. Powers said that if a proof of subsequent purchase for a restraint device can be produced at a court appearance, the fine will be reduced to $15.

The third offense carries a $25 fine and possible costs. Enforcement could be tricky, according to law enforcement officials. Basically, the law will be applied if an unrestrained child is observed by a policeman or if an accident occurs and an unrestrained child is involved.

Granite City Police Chief Ronald Veizer said his department will enforce the act, just like any other law.

Brumbery did not offer a statement on his behalf before Judge Beatty passed sentence, but his attorney, Rodney DeVilliers, argued vehemently for a new trial. DeVilliers said that a new trial should have been granted on five grounds depicting violations during the trial, but cited one as "the most crucial."

"The government presented evidence which was undoubtedly prejudicial to the defendant," DeVilliers argued. "The evidence showed the enormity of the money involved."

During the trial, DeVilliers had a standing objection to the testimony of any evidence which pertained to the actual looting of Sixx. According to DeVilliers, the evidence should have consisted only of documents and testimony relating to violations of the plea bargain itself.

DeVilliers also maintained that key government witnesses, Jerry Maeras and Brumbery, were not truthful during their testimony, and that the government used altered evidence to win its case. "Throughout this case, it was apparent to everyone, except the

RESTRAINT LAW. The Child Passenger Protection Act, requiring safety restraint seats for children, goes into effect July 1. Dr. Joy Honegger, of Collinsville, straps her son Andrew into an approved restraint device. (Photo by Solie Jo Burton)

Obtaining an approved restraint device should be relatively simple, but the Press-Record has received some calls from concerned parents who wanted to know where the seats could be purchased.

Venture will carry the devices and they can be ordered at Sears Roebuck & Co. and J.C. Penney Co., Inc. Further, K-Mart carries some restraint seats and automobile dealerships indicated they could order the devices.

Some hospitals are offering restraint seats for newborns and infants, but St. Elizabeth Medical Center administrators decided not to get involved in the loan program.

According to Jack Greaves, assistant vice president at SEMC, the hospital "spent some time looking into it," but then decided it "was not in the best interest" to become involved in the program because of legal liability questions.

SEMC will, however, show films during prenatal classes and offer information to the community about the importance of the safety restraints and how to properly use them.

The necessity of the devices is made clearer considering that during a sudden stop or crash, momentum causes a 20-pound child to move forward with a force of 400 pounds or more. Even a low-speed accident causes considerable force.

For instance, in a 30-mph accident, a child can be thrown with a force equal to 30 times its weight. Regular seat belts, officials said, can damage young children because of the way the belts are positioned on their bodies. While some children may resist the restraints, removing a complaining child from the device is not a justifiable excuse to avoid a ticket, police said.

The only exception says that children can be removed from the restraint seats for feeding, nursing, changing diapers or other such personal necessities.

A safety seat elevates children so they can look out the window more easily and many parents report their children are content while in the restraints.

Parents and guardians are advised to look for the words "dynamically tested" when shopping for restraint seats. Federal law, requires that all restraints manufactured after May, 1980, pass strength and performance tests. Seats that pass the tests usually contain labels stating such.

Chamber opposes state income tax hike

Local business and industrial officials have issued a position paper opposing Gov. James Thompson's proposed 60-percent increase in the corporate income-tax rate.

Members of the executive board of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce expressed their views in a position paper released this week, claiming the state tax proposal, if approved, will harm local on-going economic development efforts.

The Chamber statement comes only days before the June 30 General Assembly adjournment date facing state legislators.

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce has previously made known its stand against the tax hike and has backed its views with a report written by a University of Illinois economics professor. The report was commissioned by the state Chamber.

Some of the results of that study are reflected in the local Chamber's statement, which says business already have been "hit hard" by the state's unemployment insurance program and an "extensive" liberal workman's compensation program has proven (oppressive) to both new and existing businesses in Illinois.

The local group's position is based on a state proposal that could raise corporate tax rates from 4 to 6 percent and individual tax rates from 2.5 to 4 percent next year. The proposal would drop to 3.75 percent and business to 6 percent in 1985. The bill also would allow homeowners to deduct property taxes from gross income for state taxing purposes.

Chamber executive board members cite a nationwide magazine study that ranked the state's position as one of 48 contiguous states. That shows a "poor business climate" already exists, without the possible increases. "The structure and size of the state tax increase would aggravate this problem by shifting the brunt of the tax burden to Illinois corporations," the Chamber-endorsed statement said.

According to the group, the overall effect of the legislation would be to make the business climate worse in the state and decrease the chances for the area to attract and retain jobs.

The group holds the position that state revenue can be increased through prospering industries and resulting payroll taxes, rather than raising tax rates to get additional revenues.

Gov. Thompson, however, insists additional tax revenue is needed immediately if cities' revenue-sharing with the state highway construction and general assistance to the needy, among other programs, are to be continued.

The Chamber is encouraging taxpayers to write or call Gov. Thompson and state representatives to urge the defeat of the tax increases.

average citizen, the man on the street. They are the ones entitled to see that justice is done.

jury, that Jerry Maeras was a liar," DeVilliers stated. "The government used obviously altered evidence, and without that evidence, they would have received a verdict of acquittal."

Citing the use of evidence which was derived through the plea agreement with Brumbery, DeVilliers said, "The use of this evidence is a matter of the denial of a fair trial. The 'bad faith' prosecution sought to use evidence gathered under a grant of immunity."

DeVilliers concluded that such evidence was sufficient to grant a new trial. "If Tom Brimberry is to be a fair trial, then he must be tried with evidence not derived from Tom Brimberry," DeVilliers stated.

Calling DeVilliers' plea "very persuasive," Judge Beatty nevertheless denied the motion for a new trial, saying, "The jury was out 16 hours. At no time did they indicate that they were deceived, in itself, indicated that they were discussing and deliberating over the evidence."

Citing DeVilliers' argument that the jury convicted Brimberry on the theft of itself, Judge Beatty said, "If they had found him guilty of the fraud, they could have done that without leaving the box." Judge Beatty remained adamant about the use of evidence relating to the looting, saying that he allowed the evidence because of its relevance. He was convinced then, as I am now, that the evidence admitted was perfectly relevant," he stated. "The errors that may have been made in this case do not rise to the level of cause of reversing the case," he added.

In fact, Judge Beatty argued the case had been well tried. "The length of time that the jury deliberated indicated that the case was extremely well tried," he said.

Brimberry's wife, Janice, was present during the sentencing, and she indicated that the sentence came as no surprise to her. "I'm not shocked," she told the Press-Record. "It's what we expected. If (Judge Beatty) would have said five years, I would have fainted."

When asked if he was surprised by the sentence, DeVilliers said, "Not really," and indicated that he will file for an appeal within the 10-day period. Brimberry also faces eight counts of perjury in a St. Louis-based trial scheduled in August.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

Hartigan steers clear of issues

SPRINGFIELD — "It seems much harder to get things done, which is why I was surprised when I was in the lieutenant governor's office we had so few resources. You would have thought it would have been much harder then."

Neil Hartigan, who as attorney general holds what is considered the most powerful office in state government next to the governor, discussed his views in an interview the changes that have taken place in the Illinois political climate since he first came to Springfield some 10 years ago.

"Basically there was more of a professional discipline in the whole structure. In both parties you could deal with people. Their word was given. There was a level of professional respect that went back and forth. I don't see the same atmosphere."

But Hartigan, whom many in politics feel will be the next governor, avoided any personal criticism of current government and legislative leaders. He had complimentary words for Gov. James Thompson, Senate President Phil Rock and House Speaker Mike Madigan, generally regarded as the foremost Hartigan rival for the 1988 governor nomination.

"I'm not negative about the Legislature. It's a hard job. I think what it is, at the end of the period of Richard J. Daley Sr. was that after his death it wouldn't have made any difference who won the primary in Chicago. It was the era of that era, an era that was one of strong central leaders. There was discipline in that system."

"So it seems to me there's a bunch of islands sort of floating around, bumping into each other, instead of a definite structure. And I think that's the result of coming out of the end of this transition period and not really having in place in either party a structure that is firmly established as far as the future is concerned."

Hartigan, who completes his first six months as attorney general this month, is concentrating on running his own office and staying clear of such controversies as the state's fiscal troubles.

Hartigan says his contribution to help solve the state's fiscal troubles is "a vigorous crackdown on the non-collection of revenues. There is $150 million in medical aid alone, by my predecessor's estimate, I'm doing within the office what I can do in collecting revenue, which I think will help relieve some of the problems in the social service area."

Hartigan is having success with the legislative program for his office. This includes bills to deal with environmental hazards and state tax laws, strengthening nuclear safety, creating a victims' justice system to aid victims of violent crime and legislation to protect farmers against financial loss in the farm income crisis.

A major goal of Hartigan is to bring most of the lawyers now scattered throughout the state under the control of the attorney general. Most of these are under the governor and efforts to change the system have caused battles in the past.

The most recent one involved Democratic Gov. Dan Walker and Republican Attorney General William Scott. Hartigan has sought to head off a confrontation with Thompson.

A first step was the creating of a Legal Advisory Board to study the entire legal system and make recommendations early next year. Heading the board is Democrat Walter Schaefer, a former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, and its membership includes Sam Witwer, a Republican lawyer who was president of the last constitutional convention.

Hartigan says the problem is that while his office has "100 percent" of the state's legal responsibility it has only about 25 percent of the resources. "So the question is: What do you do about it? What should we do about it? I think we should do about it, rather than having a political brawl, was that I sit down with the governor and let him make the professional advisory board and ask him to work with me on that. I would say at this point that he is receptive to the beginning stages. As to how far he'll go, your guess is as good as mine."

As lieutenant governor, Hartigan was known for his concern for the problems of the elderly. His reputation was a significant factor in his successful race for attorney general last year. He is determined to make good on campaign promises to help the poor.

Youngster hurt in fall from bike

Melissa Kusmierczak, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kusmierczak, 2601 Lowess and 10th St., fell from her bicycle in the 3800 block of Washington Ave. at 6 p.m. Saturday.

The father told police the child was riding the bike between a utility pole and a support pole when she fell. Her injuries were caused from an unsecured wire or cable, which was protruding about 12 inches from the pole and was roughly two feet from the ground.

Illinois Power was notified and personnel secured the cable, reports said.

And demand for steel is closely associated with the economy. Consumer confidence has improved substantially—aided by lower inflation, some improvement in employment-unemployment statistics, the upcoming tax reduction in July and, last but not least, the surge in stock prices which has, on average, improved the financial position of the consumer.

This is very timely because the consumer traditionally has been the catalyst to start the economy moving in the right direction.

Investments in housing and cars, key consumer expenditures, cover a broad spectrum of the economy in terms of government expenditures can also act as a catalyst. But this time around government has become somewhat of a current source of uncontrolled budget deficits.

The deficits are keeping long-term interest rates high, thus discouraging badly-needed industry expenditures for plant and equipment.

On balance, however, there is still a basis for optimism. The depth and duration of the recession have resulted in substantially reduced inventories. This is not uncommon, but this time inventories were reduced at an unheard-of rate and now have to be rebuilt.

There is evidence that inventories are so lean they cannot satisfy requirements, even at the present relatively low level.

Low inventory is normal in the initial stage of an economic recovery, but the current deficiency is unusually large—definite plus for increased production.

While there is a case for optimism, it is not recognized that there are no overnight miracles. Unemployment is still relatively high. And in some sectors of the economy, many laid-off workers may not be fair-minded in their criticism as well as increased automation.

Inflation is considerably lower, and so is short-term interest. Long-term interest rates have not fully responded, so capital spending by business is still lagging. This is the major deterrent to economic growth. Growth of great magnitude normally would be well under way by now, sending out strong indications of continuing strength for the balance of the decade.

What it will take at this point to achieve a normal cyclical recovery are lower long-term interest rates and improved business profits. These can set the path for increased capital expenditures.

Having been part of a major capital spending project in the 1960s, one gets a sensitivity to the time frame in which subsequent action is taken.

Some of the pessimism made by some magazines that "time is running out" for the steel industry "do not take proper cognizance of the fact that steel is a basic demand and steel reflects the condition of the economy."

As far as competitive materials are concerned—aluminum and plastics—steel has always had a competitive edge, price-wise.

Young brother of local woman killed

Matthew D. Sidner, 9, of rural Pocahontas, was the brother of a local resident, died about 5 p.m. Thursday, June 23, 1983, in an airplane crash near Benton in Southwest Missouri.

Also killed in the crash were his father, James W. Sidner, 40, Cape Girardeau, Mo., and the pilot of the airplane, Billy Wayne Ferrel, 47, of Benton.

Matthew's brother, James Sidner Jr., 14, was injured and was reported in serious condition Sunday in the burn unit at St. John Mercy Medical Center in St. Louis County.

Witnesses told the Scott County, Mo., sheriff's office that the plane clipped some power lines and burst into flames after crashing into a field. The Federal Aviation Administration is investigating the cause of the accident.

Matthew was on a summer vacation with his father. He was born in Highland and lived with his mother, Mrs. Roberta (Hardwick) Sidner, in Pocahontas. He was a student at Pocahontas Elementary Center.

Beside his mother, Matthew is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Donna Best of Madison and Mrs. Brenda Halbe of Alhambra; three brothers, James Sidner Jr., and Steven and Gary Sanis of Washington Park; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Sidner of Decatur.

Visitation begins at 4 p.m. Monday at Daughters Mortuary in Alhambra, where services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Tuesday, June 28. Burial will be in Salem Cemetery in Alhambra; three

First Bank introduces new automatic tellers

First Granite City National Bank has announced the inauguration of 24-hour banking services by the new "Rescue-24" Automated Teller Machine System.

This system will enable First Bank customers to make routine banking transactions any time, day or night, making it more convenient in particular for those individuals who work during regular banking hours, according to Melvin C. Wilmmsmeyer, president of the bank.

"Our goal is to provide every possible convenience for First Bank customers," Wilmmsmeyer said. "The system is designed for fast and easy operation. We have placed 'Rescue-24' units at two centralized Granite City areas. A drive-up unit is located at the downtown main bank and a walk-up machine is in service at our Belleme facility lobby entrance." Wilmmsmeyer stressed that the machines have been installed as an added convenience and are not intended to take the place of "person-to-person" banking.

FILES TELEPHONE HARASSMENT CHARGE

Ronald Martin, 29, of 25 Victoria Drive, Pontoon Beach, was arrested last week at a Pontoon Beach service station and charged with a harassment by telephone. He was released after posting a $101 cash bond.

The complaint was signed by Bill Abernathy, 2821 E. 28th St., who alleged Martin repeatedly called his phone number asking for another individual. He also alleged Martin threatened him.

When contacted by a Granite City officer, Martin reportedly became belligerent over the phone and cursed the officer. He was picked up by Granite City police, accompanied by a Pontoon Beach sergeant.

Arlin Davis requested permit to drive, but question is moot

By ED GURNEY

Arlin Davis has applied for a driver's permit, but the request is moot because he will soon begin serving a prison sentence, according to one of his attorneys.

The state secretary of state's office held a hearing on the request June 6, but no decision has been made on whether to grant it.

John Gitchoff, an attorney for Davis, said it no longer matters what happens to Davis' application, because of a decision released last week by the Fifth District Appellate Court.

The court ruled that Davis, 53, of Holiday Mobile Home

Court, should serve a three-year sentence on his 1980 conviction on three counts of reckless homicide, one count of driving with a revoked or suspended license and one count of driving while intoxicated. The sentence was reduced from 10 years.

The charges stemmed from a fatal auto crash on State Aid 35 near Collinsville on New Year's Eve 1979.

Gitchoff said Davis had requested a driver's permit because he had a chance to get a job. Davis had lost out on some job opportunities because of not being able to drive, he said.

Millie Releford of the secretary of state's office said Davis has not had a license since March 24, 1979. Davis has had four driving while intoxicated convictions, she said.

Gitchoff said he thought it was unlikely Davis would have been given a permit because of the publicity the case has received.

Gitchoff said one thing that bothers him is that the secretary of state's office for some reason has acted to revoke Davis' license more than one time, even after it was already revoked. He said he does not know why the office has taken the action.

The last date of revocation was Jan. 4 of this year.

One problem with the multiple revocations is that the secretary of state's office apparently has a rule that a new license cannot be obtained for five years after the revocation date, Gitchoff said.

It is uncertain when Davis will begin serving his sentence. The Madison County circuit court will order him to prison after it receives a mandate from the appellate court.

Gitchoff's law partner, Jim Wallis, said that it usually takes three to four weeks for the mandate to be received.

County may use Jobs Bill funds to alter county buildings to aid the handicapped

Madison County is hoping to use $100,000 of its $1.194 million in federal "jobs bill" funds to make county buildings more accessible to the handicapped.

The $100,000 was not on the list of projects given the press. Collinsville officials asked because the city's jobs bill projects were turned down, have noted that the winning requests add up to $135,000 less than the total amount to be received by Madison County.

Cheryl Jouett, director of the county's Community Development office, through which the jobs bill money is being funneled, says the handicapped accessibility project explains $100,000 of the seeming "discrepancy."

And $80,000 of the $1.194 million is being earmarked for administrative costs.

As for the other $5,000, Jouett said the amount of funds the county will receive is slightly less than the sum originally announced. Seventy-six applications totaling more than $4.5 million were made for Madison County's jobs bill money. A county committee chose only 14 of these projects. About half of the $1.194 million is to go to the Quad-City area.

Both Collinsville and Troy asked the Madison County Board to change the distribution of the federal funds last week but were unsuccessful.

Collinsville Finance Commissioner Thomas Jenkins has suggested an injunction to stop distribution of the federal funds. The city council has not met since the county board disregard the city's protest this month.

Mrs. Jouett said the accessibility project for the handicapped would involve such things as ramps, elevators and restrooms in county buildings.

The county's application for the $1.194 million must be in the hands of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development by July 1.

Mrs. Jouett said the application should be in the mail by today.

COPPER BRAKE TUBES STOLEN

Three 40-foot lengths of copper air line brake tubes and three tail lights were stolen from a truck trailer parked at Paul Seebold Co., 22nd Street and the railroad tracks, it was reported at 8:55 a.m. Thursday by John Hegel, an employee.

708 board wants a director

A full-time executive director could be managing the daily affairs of the Madison County 708 Mental Health Board by next month, according to 708 Board Chairman Arthur Zahalsky.

The board received more than 40 applications, and interviews will be conducted in July for the new position, which Zahalsky said was necessary for managing the board.

"We need somebody to handle program planning and evaluation and budget preparation and analysis," Zahalsky said. "A volunteer board cannot do all of this on an everyday basis."

Zahalsky said the salary range for the position is $24,000-$28,000, and that the effectiveness of a full-time administrator would "absolutely" offset the director's salary cost.

The seven-member 708 board allocates funds to 14 agencies in the county, according to Zahalsky, and it has a budget of $1.2 million. While the Madison County board determines the 708 board's budget, it is generally the responsibility of the mental health board to distribute its funds to the agencies.

Martha Welch, a 708 board member from Collinsville, agreed with Zahalsky, saying the volunteer board wishes to be more effective in monitoring agencies which receive 708 board funding.

"We're trying to do an ongoing evaluation (of the 708 board-funded agencies), and that turns out to be a pretty good task," Welch said. "We feel we're not able to do as thorough of a job as we would like to."

In addition, Mrs. Welch said, an executive director would be able to develop community support for the 708 board.

The county board must approve the hiring of an executive director for the 708 board. Zahalsky said he would like to present a recommended candidate to the county board at its July 20 meeting.

Man, 23, dies from gunshot

After being shot in an alleged altercation in Venice, Harold Marvin Wright, 23, of 26 Garesche Homes, Madison, was pronounced dead at 2:37 a.m. Saturday, June 25, 1983, by Madison County Deputy Coroner Edward Besserman at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Venice officers were called to Weaver and Douglas avenues at 1:47 a.m. Saturday, after receiving a report of a shooting having taken place in Garret's Tavern, 337 Weaver Ave.

Enroute to the tavern, a large group of people was seen standing around in a field at Weaver and Douglas, where Mr. Wright was found lying on the ground.

He suffered a gunshot wound to the left upper side of his body, reports said. When the arrival time of an ambulance was uncertain, officers placed Mr. Wright in a squad car and transported him to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, it was learned.

Those at the scene alleged a woman shot Mr. Wright and fled from the area. A employee at Garret's Tavern told police that Mr. Wright came in the tavern and began pushing a woman. The woman, who pushed him back, asked that a call be made to police, it was learned.

Other details were given police, including information that both Mr. Wright and the woman ran from the premises.

The woman, an East St. Louis resident, came to Venice police headquarters at 8:30 a.m. Saturday and gave officers a voluntary statement.

According to Venice police reports, the same woman had been beaten Friday and was taken by an officer to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

On the advice of the Madison County state's attorney's office, the woman was released from custody shortly after noon Saturday, pending further investigation.

A coroner's inquest also is pending.

Camp Adventure still has openings

The YMCA Camp Adventure for 6 to 11-year-old boys and girls is in its fourth week.

The campers have enjoyed swimming at the Granite City Depot's big and beautiful outdoor pool. The group has played kickball game, frisbee baseball, soccer and other fun team games," according to David L. Femrite, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area YMCA.

Arts and crafts completed are Indian head bands, paper roses, popsicle stick items, finger painting, coloring and other assorted crafts.

In the first week, the campers were divided into three age groups to participate in a frisbee golf tournament. In the 6- and 7-year-olds, first place was won by Jamie Oliver, second Jason McCord and Jamie Vance and Paul Austin tied for third.

In the 8- and 9-year-olds, Chris Bilibrey finished first, Andy Johnson second, and Diane Edwards, third. In the 10- and 11-year-olds Bobby Moore was first, followed by Michelle Edwards second, and Dan Partney third.

During the second week the campers played double elimination checker tournament. Coming through the losers' bracket to win the camp championship was Dan Partney. He defeated Chris Bilibrey, who advanced through the winners' bracket undefeated until his showdown with Partney. Chris Vance took third place honors, followed by Michelle Edwards, fourth, and Billy Gibson, fifth.

Coming events at the camp, which will continue for six more weeks, include another frisbee golf tournament, track meet, archery tournament and other types of competition.

"There are still some slots available for children. For more information call the YMCA at 876-7200," Femrite said.

Waiver aids state in funding in-home care

Governor James R. Thompson said last week that Illinois has received a federal waiver that will assist the state in funding in-home care for the aged and physically impaired.

The waiver helps make it possible for Illinois to continue providing in-home care services. "Funding for these services has been in jeopardy due to the state's current fiscal crisis," Thompson said.

Under the waiver from the Department of Health and Human Services, Illinois will be reimbursed by the federal government for half the funds spent to provide in-home care services which had previously been paid for entirely with state dollars. In-home care services, run by the state Departments of Aging and Rehabilitation Services, (with funding operation coordinated by the Department of Public Aid) help prevent individuals from being placed in nursing homes and other institutions when care could be provided in individual homes.

The two departments' in-home care programs provide a variety of services, including chore and housekeeping services, homemaker services, emergency response services, case management—screening and, in some cases, adult day care.

The governor said the goal of the waiver is to divert to in-home care 20 percent, or 1,800, of the individuals who would otherwise be admitted to nursing homes in Fiscal Year 1984.

The Department on Aging expects to serve 15,000 elderly people through its in-home care program in Fiscal year 1984 while the Department of Rehabilitation Services is expected to serve more than 3,000.

"In-home care provides more personalized care for individuals and can also result in a cash savings to the taxpayers," Thompson added. "It is imperative during the state's current situation that we continue to find ways to provide better care for those needing it, thereby ensuring that state and federal dollars are spent effectively."

Effective July 15, the program will be available to aged and physically-impaired individuals who are eligible for Medicaid. A second waiver request, still pending, would ensure in-home care coverage for developmentally-disabled persons.

Credit union merger here

Michael E. Fryzel, director, Illinois Department of Financial Institutions, has approved the mergers of nine credit unions, one of which is in Granite City.

The Industrial Credit Union of Granite City, sponsored by the Consolidated Aluminum Corp. and by some of the other metal and metal-by-product companies in the local area, merged into the Processors Industrial Credit Union, 2269 State St., Granite City.

Fryzel said merger activity has been relatively high this year, 47 occurring during the first 11 months of 1983 compared to 30 for the same period in 1981-82.

The increase in mergers was attributed to both the desire of smaller credit unions to increase the financial services and benefits to their members, and the need to merge occupationally-based credit unions in response to employer shutdowns or plant closings.

Fryzel said the decreasing number of active credit unions is a somewhat misleading statistic concerning credit union strength, as the 924 credit unions existing at the end of 1982 reported an increase of 16.4 percent in assets, to $2.8 billion. Growth in 1983 appears to be exceeding the pace of last year, he added.

Illinois credit unions are not limited as to dividend (interest) rates they can pay on members' shares (deposits), as are credit thrift institutions," he said. "Some credit unions have reported dividends in excess of 10 percent on common share accounts, the credit unions' equivalent of thrift passbook accounts. The ability to pay competitive rates on savings have allowed credit unions to grow significantly while decreasing in number."

Suggests swim and gym at the YMCA

"Remember when you were 8 years old, out of money, and no place to go, nothing but 'dead time' on your hands? The 'Y' was the only place where you could swim, play basketball and have a good time," says David L. Femrite, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area YMCA.

"Things haven't changed! The 'Y' still is the fun place for youth to go. The 'Y' has started a new program for all youth each week, school is on a 'break.' The 'Y' will be open to all youth, members and non-members alike. Youth can play in the gym from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day and swim in the pool from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and from 2:45 to 4 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, for only $1 during the summer," he added.

Three vehicles were damaged in an accident at 1:45 a.m. Sunday in the 3200 block of Fehling Road, involving Bradley E. Roe, 25, of 17 Wilson Park Drive, who later was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. Roe said he was traveling south on Fehling when a northbound vehicle passed him, cutting him off and causing him to swerve to the right and strike the parked auto of Ann Miller, 3245 Fehling Road, and a pickup truck, also parked, owned by Randall Presswood, 2644 E. 28th St.

Roe's vehicle then crossed the roadway, hitting a handicapped parking sign and the chain link fence around the Granite City High School football field. About 20 feet of fencing was knocked down, reports said.

Area I-255 construction discussed by engineer

Highways cross rivers with problems that are easily evaluated. But flood drainage from the bluffs around Collinsville carries much sediment, said Navinchandra Rupani at the last dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Collinsville. Rupani, a hydraulic engineer with the Illinois Department of Transportation, addressed the problem of carrying these flood waters across I-255 when the link between I-64 and I-270 is completed just west of Collinsville.

Two conditions were looked for, he explained, minimum diversion of water from its natural course and minimum outlay of money. The solution of the problem calls for the forming of two retention lakes of 27 and 37 acres extent, said Rupani. These will be 22 feet deep and contain 20 feet of water at all times.

Flood waters will be admitted as they rise, up to a capacity of 220 acre feet. The water will be held until Canteen Creek subsides, then pumped into Canteen Creek by pumps delivering 18,000 gallons per minute. This will require 66 hours.

The lakes will be protected by a chain link fence six feet high, the speaker said. He expects that a little over two acre feet of sediment will deposit, weighing 4,000 tons. He believes the sediment will be readily disposed of.

The cost is estimated at $8 to $10 million. Federal funds will cover 82 percent and state funds 18 percent.

The earth excavated will be used for nearby fills and embankments, reducing costs elsewhere in the construction, said Rupani.

The project is outstanding in Illinois for its magnitude in this type of operation, he added.

Rupani said the project has been approved and work will start in August.

File 5 charges after accident

Oral R. Hutchins, 27, of 2822 Nameoki Road, was transferred last week to the Madison County Jail after a crash involving his appearance in the Granite City court on five charges, including driving under the influence of alcohol. His arrest followed a weekend traffic accident in the 1000 block of West Pontoon Road, where witnesses alleged an auto he was operating jumped the median into the westbound lanes, returned across the median and struck a street sign and a 50-foot light pole.

Hutchins' vehicle then collided with and damaged a 14-foot trailer on the property of George Gray, 1000 W. Pontoon Road.

Later, it was alleged Hutchins was the same driver who had earlier struck a U.S. Postal Service mailbox at Pershing Avenue and Nameoki Road, knocking it down.

Hutchins was charged with DUI, leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving, improper lane usage and criminal damage to property.

Bond was set at $3,000 cash and a mittimus was issued.

Charges follow drive-in issue

Wendy S. Boyett, 19, of 2140 Dawn Ave., was arrested at Nameoki Road and Lindell Boulevard early Thursday and charged with misdemeanor theft and criminal damage to property.

The charges related to an incident a few minutes earlier at Jack-The-Box, 3330 Nameoki Road, where police were told a man and woman had just left in the red pickup truck after the woman allegedly created a disturbance.

An employee at the drive-in alleged Miss Boyett accused her of giving her a "dirty look," then proceeded to curse her and use obscene language. The employee then refused to serve Miss Boyett and another employee took her place and placed a soft drink on a counter near the drive-through window.

Miss Boyett allegedly pushed open the window, grabbed the soda and then broke the window before leaving in the truck. She declined medical attention for an injury to her right hand.

GC woman newest fan of Granite City Center

When Diana Hoffman Hunkla decided to attend the Granite City Home Show 63, she wasn't thinking about college. She left the home show the newest fan of Granite City Center (GCC). Mrs. Hunkla, a resident of Granite City and former resident of Highland, won a silver-and-blue GCC booster jacket. She was just one of the many people attending the show who learned first-hand about the new Community College District 322 extension center that will open in the former Granite City High School North building this fall.

Mrs. Hunkla said the opening of GCC will make attending college more convenient for residents of the northern portion of the college district.

"My brother, Marty Hoffman, just graduated from BAC a few weeks ago," she said. "I had to take some classes at Granite City High School South and some in Belleville. He spent a lot of time driving that could have been spent studying."

Marty Hoffman is a graduate of the business program. Work and family keep Mrs. Hunkla busy now, but the closeness of GCC may encourage her to take courses in the future, she said.

A native of Granite City, she recently moved back to the community from Highland where she had lived about five years. She is a registered nurse working in pediatrics at Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryland. She is a graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

She and her husband, Nick, have two children, Nicholas, 4, and Phillip, 20 months.

Registration is underway from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Fridays at GCC, which is located at 4950 Maryville Road, at Route 203.

Classes begin Monday, Aug. 22.

GCC will offer a wide range of programs designed to prepare students for entry into jobs in just a year or two, as well as the first two years of bachelor's degrees.

For information or to register, students may call 451-0120.

Tickets are $10 and include hors d'oeuvres.

A special guest will be Congressman Tom Corcoran, who recently announced his candidacy for Sen. Charles Percy's seat. Tickets are available from most GOC precinct committees or reservations may be made by calling Chuck Evered, 848-9428 or Tom Long at 1-466-9080.

Reception to aid Don Weber campaign

Madison County Republican officials are urging a big turnout at a reception honoring State's Attorney Don Weber Tuesday from 5 to 7 p.m. at Lewis & Clark Restaurant in East Alton.

According to the Madison County Republican Central Committee's Newsletter, received during the weekend, "Democratic machine politicians have announced their intention to spend as much as necessary to defeat Don in 1984."

Tickets are $10 and include hors d'oeuvres.

Marshals still stand up to outlaws; make GC arrest

A successful Granite City stakeout in which only a fraction of a second in timing made the difference between the arrest of a desperado and a shoot-out.

Frequent contact with court-bound prisoners at the nation's chief maximum-security prison, Marion, where hostage-taking and bargaining are discouraged by classifying any captured officer as "assumed to be dead."

Extensive behind-the-scenes investigative work in which some of the "frontier days" hazards for federal marshals are duplicated in 1983.

Tales of danger, dogged persistence and courage were told to Granite City Rotarians last week by the U.S. marshal for the Southern District of Illinois, William J. Nettles.

One of 93 marshals in this nation, each appointed by the president and confirmed by the U.S. Senate, Nettles rose from deputy sheriff to chief deputy to sheriff and to county treasurer in the 1950s and 1960s. He joined the Illinois attorney general's office in 1969, becoming chief investigator, and then was named marshal for the local district.

Filling a position created in 1789, with the initial appointees chosen by George Washington, the marshal of today still is faced with difficult, wide-ranging duties and a limited staff but has the benefit of highly-sophisticated support equipment, Nettles said.

America's senior federal law enforcement agency, the U.S. Marshals Service is a branch of the Department of Justice. The Service:

1. Supports the federal judicial system through service of civil and criminal process; execution of warrants, including those for most federal fugitives; custody and transport of federal prisoners; and custody and control of seized property.

2. Security of federal property and buildings, including federal court facilities; protection of judges, jurors, witnesses and other trial participants.

3. Special Operations support to the U.S. attorney general through a quick response capability to control civil disturbances and other national law enforcement emergencies.

4. Enforcement activities at the request of other federal agencies or as directed by the attorney general.

From the original corps of 13 marshals, the number has increased to 93, backed by 2,000 deputy marshals and administrative personnel throughout the U.S., Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Many of America's most sensitive trials occur in this district, "at such courts as East St. Louis, Alton and Benton, Nettles related.

Deputy marshals who are specialists in court protection advise on the latest security techniques and devices during such trials, as well as at judicial conferences and during the transporting of witnesses and defendants.

Some of those incarcerated at Marion are believed to have access to millions of dollars in the outside world and, through liberal telephone privileges, they can call virtually anyone in the nation, the speaker said.

Marshals provide personal protection, often around the clock, to U.S. judges and attorneys, he noted.

Fifty-man teams are on call, 24 hours a day, to reach any point in the nation within six hours, the club was told.

Members of the elite Special Operations Group, which has been described as a paramilitary reaction force, meet rigorous standards of physical and mental ability and strength of character. They were utilized a short time ago in connection with an Illinois trial that followed a Marion escape plot, Nettles said.

Federal marshals have the duty of ensuring the safety of witnesses who risk their lives testifying for the government in organized crime and major criminal activity cases.

Since 1970, thousands have been protected, relocated and provided with new identities by the Marshals Service. Problems include crimes by those under protection, or actions by them that end the secrecy about their whereabouts.

Although Nettles would prefer to change a few of the procedural rules, he regards the new-identity program for witness security as the most valuable tool currently available in the war against major criminals and organized crime.

Investigations by marshals result in the yearly arrest of 17,000 federal fugitives. Each year, two-thirds of new and remaining fugitives are apprehended.

Marshals have become the primary agency for extradition of fugitives caught overseas and wanted in the U.S.

Interpol also has designated the Marshals Service as the primary U.S. agency to capture fugitives wanted by foreign countries and believed to be in America.

Although reporters for these nearly worldwide operations are located in France and in El Paso, Texas.

The central base for the marshals is in the suburban Washington, D.C., area (McLean, Va.) and there is an office in each federal court district.

New deputy marshals receive 13-week training in Georgia.

The Marshals Service yearly controls more than $21 million in contracts with city and county jails utilized to house federal prisoners. It inspects these facilities to ensure compliance with federal standards.

Coordinated air and ground systems move 42,000 federal prisoners annually to destinations near and far, it was related.

Program chairman was Don Adams, Vice-President Will Seim presided, and plans were completed for installation of 1983-84 Granite City Rotary officers June 28.

County board passes tax ordinance

Mobile home owners who don't pay property taxes could be sued by the county, following the approval of an ordinance establishing guidelines for tax collection.

The Madison County Board agreed to the ordinance this month, although officials admit it will take time to work the kinks out of the plan.

But Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith said he is certain the county will eventually collect money it is owed. Officials, however, said they doubt the full amount, totaling $700,000, will be collected, because some mobile home owners have moved.

It has been estimated that the county will probably collect $200,000 of the total.

"I'm really confident it will work, but it will take about a year and half to fine tune it," Smith said.

The Mobile Home Privilege Tax, enacted in 1973, has not been effective against county tax evaders, and the county has not strictly enforced the state statute, arguing that its enforcement is difficult.

The ordinance, based on the state statute, establishes:

— Regulations for mobile home owners and mobile home park operators regarding payment of the tax and penalties of $25 to $100;

— Adversement to the various taxing bodies within the district;

— Requirements for registering mobile homes; and — The hiring of a licensed attorney and a legal stenographer for six months at a cost of $16,000, which will be added to the state's attorney's budget.

"I think by the end of this fiscal year, we'll have a good idea where the program is. If it looks like it's not going to run, we'll cut it off," Smith told the county board.

He said that the statute is very specific about who should pay real estate taxes. The mobile home tax is based on the square footage of the home, starting at 15 cents a square foot and decreasing after 15 years to 7.5 cents a square foot.

Officials have considered means to collect the taxes for several months and Madison County Treasurer Michael "Mick" Henkhaus has said the county will prosecute the tax evaders, as well as collecting the taxes.

It will be difficult, however, to track down all the evaders, because many mobile home owners move without obtaining permits, although the state statute says it is a crime to move a mobile home more than one mile without a permit.

In 11 years, only five mobile home owners have obtained permits from the county, records indicate. Plus, only 3,500 of an estimated 8,000 mobile homes are registered in the county.

Miofsky picked for Leadership St. Louis

Thomas G. Miofsky is among 52 persons from the greater St. Louis area selected to participate in Leadership St. Louis for 1983-84. The program is designed to make people in leadership positions aware of issues and problems facing the St. Louis area, and to train them to take a role in the solution of these problems.

Miofsky is associated with the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp. as General Supervisor of employment and resides in Granite City.

Chosen from 150 nominees, those selected for Leadership St. Louis serve as role models in making positions and jobs of influence in various private, public and volunteer institutions and agencies in the area. All are committed to improving the quality of life in St. Louis.

Leadership St. Louis was founded in 1976 by the Danforth Foundation, which continues to provide funding. The program is now administered by the Coro Foundation. Headquarters of Leadership St. Louis and the Coro Foundation is at 4218 Laclede Ave., St. Louis.

Program participants meet with experts in various fields to learn about the major issues facing the region. Meetings take place on one Friday and Saturday each month from September through May, and are held at sites which tie in with the topics being discussed.

Nearly 350 people have completed the training program since its inception seven years ago. Many of them now hold key positions in the community.

Legislation would extend racing season at Fairmount

The Illinois Senate has passed and sent to the governor, legislation waiving the 75-day racing limit at Fairmount Park in Collinsville.

House Bill 697, sponsored by Senator Sam Vadala (D-Edwardsville) was approved 58-0.

Also exempted from the 75-day limit is the Quad-City Downs.

"Under our current law, tracks in Chicago are able to get around the 75-day limit by forming several corporations, each of which can race at the track for 75 days," Vadala said. "Tracks such as Fairmount and Quad-City don't have that opportunity."

"Many racing fans near those two tracks would like to have the same opportunity for more racing dates. This legislation simply gives these fans that same opportunity."

If the governor signs the legislation, it would be in effect for the next racing season at Fairmount.

Kempfners, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, today announced that that agency, as part of the multi-state agency Parents Too Soon program, will be awarding grants for comprehensive family-planning and prenatal care services. Awards will be made from Title V Jobs bill funds for the period July 15, 1983, through September 30, 1984.

Applications for these grants must describe plans for the provision of prenatal care or family-planning services in accordance with the standards contained in "Program Content and Guidelines for Maternal and Child-Health Services."

"The primary emphasis for these projects," Kempfners said, "must be to provide services to both male and female adolescents."

Applications should demonstrate the existence of linkages and referral arrangements with other agencies providing services such as: in-home support services for adolescent parents with newborn infants, parenting training and support groups for young mothers, child-care and supplementary services to allow young mothers to complete their education or training or maintain employment or employment or job-skills training for underemployed-unemployed youth.

Also programs for pregnant teenagers which focus on the problems of fetal alcohol syndrome and drug abuse, programs designed to encourage adolescents to remain in school or seek vocational training and the special supplemental food program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC).

"Applications from areas with high rates of unemployment, teenage pregnancy and infant mortality will receive priority for funding," Kempfners said.

Agencies interested in obtaining an application package, including the applicable rules and regulations, should contact: Elsie Sata Baukol, M.D., chief, Division of Family Health, Illinois Department of Public Health, 535 West Jefferson St., Springfield, Ill. 62761 or telephone: 1-217-782-2736.

Proposals should be submitted to the state health department by June 30 for July 15 funding.

Encouraging use of Illinois coal among Springfield issues

SPRINGFIELD REPORT By REP. SAM W. WOLF

Warm weather finally came to Springfield and with it some "warm" confrontations in the General Assembly as the House and Senate heard bills in committee passed by the other chamber.

Illinois coal received some long-deserved attention in this General Assembly. Thus far, a number of bills have passed both the house and the Senate to encourage coal research, maximize the utilization of Illinois coal and provide some incentive among Illinois businesses to burn Illinois coal.

I would like to briefly summarize those bills dealing with the coal issue. The various pieces of legislation can have a dramatic effect on the economy of southern Illinois if the governor signs them and the various agencies involved are serious about implementation. Whenever we talk about high unemployment in Southern Illinois, or increased public assistance needs, or increased community needs, or decreased local revenues — most of our problems are tied to the depressed state of Illinois coal.

HB 99 and SB 2 would prohibit utility companies from passing through to consumers the cost of importing Western coal. Currently, the utilities companies justify the expense of bringing in Western coal by simply passing that cost on to utility consumers. If utility companies cannot pass on such costs, the hope is that more attention will be given to burning Illinois coal in an efficient and environmentally acceptable manner.

HB 931 would require utility companies and the ICC to have hearings when a utility company proposes to change from a coal-fired plant to a nuclear facility. The legislation asks that the ICC consider the social and employment impact of such a change. At the same time, the legislation protects consumers by insuring that the prime consideration in relocation of utility facilities is the cost to the customers.

HB 325 would insure that pollution control costs for sulfur dioxide emissions shall be considered by the Illinois Commerce Commission in determining any rate when the utility's primary fuel source is Illinois coal. Although the mood in Springfield, generally speaking, is to reduce "additional" costs, this legislation would continue to encourage the use of Illinois coal and the pollution devices necessary to burn it effectively.

SB 1127 would generate approximately $16 million per year for coal research. The bill would set aside one-third of the revenues from the Public Utilities Tax, the Messages Tax (on phones) and the Natural Gas Revenue Tax for the Illinois Coal Technology Development Fund. This fund would finance research into new technologies to burn Illinois coal in an environmentally safe manner — probably the biggest obstacle in maximizing the use of Illinois coal.

HB 730 permits corporations to take tax credits for research into greater utilization of Illinois coal. The bill provides for a 20 percent tax credit for expenditures on coal utilization research and a five percent credit on special equipment purchased to increase the use of Illinois coal. Hopefully, these bills provide incentives to the private sector to become involved in the economic

Utility reforms clear House

State Representative Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) has announced that the Illinois House has approved a comprehensive utility reform measure that includes a provision providing "negative CWIP" credits to consumers.

The legislation, Senate Bill 97, also includes provisions for the creation of a Citizens Utility Board and a five-year phase-out of CWIP (Construction Work in Progress) charges.

"This bill includes reforms that will effectively cut utility rates while providing consumers with strong representation before the Illinois Commerce Commission," Wolf said.

A major amendment added by the House provided consumers with a "payback" for CWIP payments made during the five-year phase-out of CWIP charges.

"This amendment assures that Illinois Consumers will be paid back the money they paid in higher utility bills during the construction of utility plants," said Wolf.

Under the concept of "negative CWIP," any increase in the rate base for utility plant construction would be deducted from future rate increases after the plant is completed and placed in service.

Other reforms included in the bill were prohibitions against including the cost of promotion advertising, transporting coal and lobbying expenses in the rate base. Also, it prevents ICC employees from working for a utility within one year after leaving ICC employment.

Nesbit paces to win 2nd NCA 10,000 meters

GRANITE CITY — By 8 a.m., the starting line of the Second Annual Namecki Crossroads 10,000 meter run, the streets in Granite City were already searing hot.

At 8:32 a.m., Sam Nesbit, crossed the finish line. He was dripping wet with sweat.

Nesbit crossed the finish line in 31:59.3 approximately 30 seconds in front of second place finisher Hyten of Edwardsville and nearly a minute in front of last year's winner Bruce DeRuntz who crossed the line at 32:35.8. Last year the lanky Granite City North graduate finished in 33:03.

How did this year's 10 K race differ from last year's? "There's a higher caliber of runners in this year's race,"

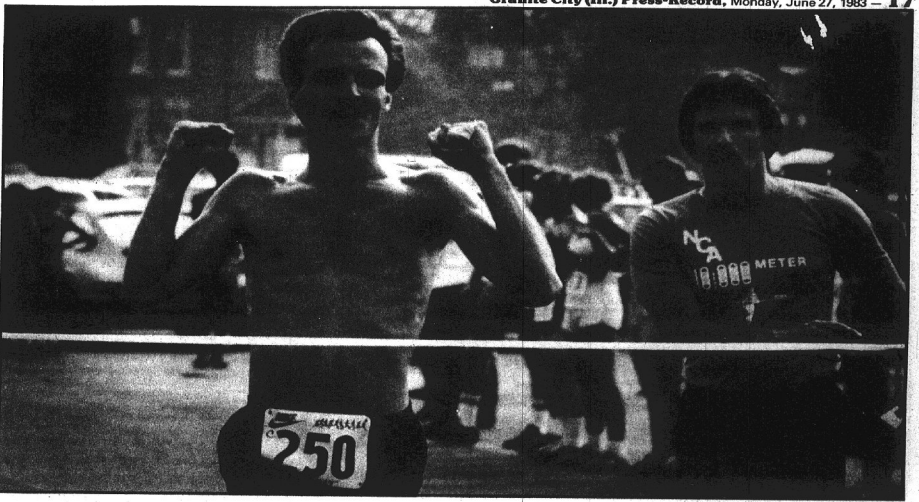

DeRuntz said after the race gasping for breath. "It's hot, but I think it was still hotter last year."

Despite the temperatures, and competing in a marathon last week, DeRuntz still eclipsed his winning performance of last year by a cool eight seconds.

Nesbit, who was a coach at Grigsby Junior High School until the recent budget cuts, said he usually runs early in the morning when it's cooler, to avoid the heat. But due to this race and the upcoming Veiled Prophet Run coming up next weekend, he's been running a little later in the day so he can condition himself for the higher temperatures. Part of that conditioning includes 106 miles per week.

THE WINNER! Sam Nesbit was the first to cross the finish line Saturday during the Second Annual Namecki Crossroads Association 10,000 meter run. Nesbit completed the 6.2 mile race in 31:59.3. At right is Danny Cox, one of the run organizers.

In Junior Legion Action Jarvis hands Granite City first divisional loss

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

DUPO — Good hitting and excellent fielding are what make the Granite City Junior American Legion baseball team one of the premiere teams in the junior division of District 22.

Thursday night, however, the local nine was a different team—different in the sense that its good hitting was almost non-existent, and its excellent fielding was... well, somewhere else.

Legion Coach Kevin Sykes assessed his team's play after the game as "untypical." That untypical play resulted in a 7-1 loss to Dupu, Granite City's first divisional loss of the season.

As a result of its victory, Dupu was the sole leader in the junior district standings. That "king of the hill" status lasted just two days for Dupu, however, as it lost to fourth place Greenville on Saturday.

As a result of the recent turn of events, both Dupu and Granite City share 10-1 junior division records. Those games, which will be completed later, ended in ties because of darkness.

One reason Granite City was in the dark and its hitting was not as good as it has been in the past was Dupu's pitcher, Jim Jarvis. Jarvis stymied Granite City at the plate, limiting it to just three hits while issuing 11 strike outs.

Now, Granite City's fielding was something else.

In all, Granite City committed five fielding errors, although when considering the misjudged fly balls, there could have been more. In fact, it was Granite City's errors which started Dupu's four-run fourth inning.

Leading 1-0 on Tom Mosby's second-inning homer which cleared the left field fence 320 feet away, Granite City got into trouble in the fourth when starting pitcher, Rod Sampson, walked Dupu's ninth batter, Colin McClanahan, and lead-off batter Jarvis.

Sampson, however, recovered to strike out Chris Cobb for what would have been the second out, but the third strike eluded Granite City catcher Jim Mouldon as Cobb reached on an error and McClanahan scored from third on the passed ball.

With runners on first and second, Don King fled out to right field for the second out, but Keith Meagher slapped a double to center field scoring Jarvis and Cobb to give Dupu a 3-1 lead.

Todd Claspin made it 4-1 with another double to centerfield to score Meagher. But before Dupu could do any more damage in the inning, Sampson got Mike Simmons to fly out to right field.

After sending down Granite City's offense in order in the top of the fourth, Dupu managed to widen the point spread with another unearned run in its half of the inning.

Dupu's Glen George struck out, but a third strike passed ball put the Dupu first baseman on base.

A sacrifice bunt by Bill Gooch worked to perfection to move George to second, and then, following McClanahan's strikeout, Jarvis doubled to center field to score George.

With a 5-1 lead, Dupu managed two more runs in the sixth inning, its final at bat.

Gooch reached on a walk and McClanahan moved him to second as a bunt got by Mosby at third base.

Jarvis picked up his second RBI of the evening as he singled in Gooch with a one-hopper to center field.

Cobb, facing Jim Fletcher who relieved Sampson after Jarvis' single, slapped a long ball to right field which under normal circumstances would have been caught. This time, however, Brent Cook dropped the ball and McClanahan scored to make it 7-1. A pair of strikeouts, and Mouldon who ran down a batter caught between third and home, retired the side.

After the game, both coaches admitted some surprise with the outcome. Dupu's Don King said he was surprised with his team's ability to dominate Granite City. Sykes' surprise, on the other hand, was less pleasant.

"They caught us off stride tonight," Sykes said. "I still think we're the better team. We had five errors tonight. We don't usually have that many errors in five games."

The Granite City coach said he was disappointed with his team's play. Not because they lost, but because he knows that can play much better.

"Things just didn't go right for us from the beginning. Sure, Tom (Mosby) had a good hit, but after that we just weren't ourselves."

Granite City will get a chance to bounce back following Thursday's loss as it takes on East St. Louis tonight in East St. Louis. That game begins at 6 p.m.

The local nine will also get another shot at Dupu on July 23 in Granite City. That game is a double header.

Mt. Greenwood takes pair from Spanky's

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

It took two years to decide who is the best amateur baseball team in the state of Illinois. Yesterday, at Edwardsville's Hoppe Park, the matter was decided: the Chicago area Mt. Greenwood Brewers defeated the 7-Up/Spunky's, 7-3, in the rubber game series going back to last year. Last year, the locals won twice.

Annually, the Brewers represent the state of Illinois in the National Baseball Congress tournament at Wichita, Kans., to decide the national amateur baseball champion.

The 7-Up/Spunky's, formerly the Southwestern Illinois Cities, play in and Missouri, to decide the right to play at Wichita four of the five years they have been eligible.

Now, following a three-game sweep of their weekend series with the 7-Up/Spunky's, 6-2 and 5-0 Saturday, and yesterday 7-3, the Chicago team has more than avenged their two losses to the locals last year. The 7-Up/Spunky's record dropped to 17-10, while the Brewers are sailing along at a 24-4 clip.

Big hitter for the Brewers against the 7-Up/Spunky's forces was their towering Mark Kolnowski, designated hitter and very effective clean-up man: twice he blasted two-run homers. It was his opening inning first-pitch four-bagger yesterday, after two were out and after Kirk Yusko has singled, that put the Chicago team out in front never to be even remotely challenged until the fifth frame when the locals pushed three runs across.

Trailing for four and with two runners on base, Eldon Warfield, the 7-Up/Spunky's young manager, called for a controversial bunt by one of his team's big bats: Darrel Wehrland. He was barely thrown out by a great bit of fielding by the winner's hurler, Ron Andrews, who increased his season to 5-0. This baseball game is a funny one: less than two weeks ago, Warfield looked like a sure-fire winner of the Manager of the Year award. His 7-Up/Spunky's were zooming along at a 15-2 clip; now they have lost seven of their last nine and are 17-10 for the season.

In two of their three losses to the Brewers, they outpitched their tormentors, but simply couldn't get that key hit when it mattered. And, for that matter, their pitching hasn't been that bad, either. In Mark Benton's 5-4 loss in the leadoff game against the Brewers Saturday at SIUE's Cougar Field, he whiffed 10 batters and gave up only five hits.

But, stranding eight runners, that old Key Hit was just not there.

Granite City's Tom Greco collected the losers' big hit yesterday: a triple in the three-run fifth frame; and he hit safely in both of Saturday's games.

Best news for the faltering 7-Up/Spunky's was Bill Stolle's two-for-two effort Sunday. His single in the fifth drove in a pair of tallies.

Warfield is confident that his team will start winning soon. "We play the St. Louis Browns tomorrow night at Granite City South. We are up on them this season two of three. They're tough, but we are due to break out of it now," he predicts.

Shortstop Scott Grote and pitcher Rod Sampson of the Granite City Junior Legion team and outfielder Jerry Booker and third baseman Randy Burgess of the Mitchell Athletic Club, Junior Legion team are four of 24 athletes selected to the West All-Star team. The matchup, which will be a double header against the best of the Chiefs, and scored on a single by Missouri, will begin at 6 and 8 p.m. on the Fourth at Marshall Field at the Kirkwood Khoury Association.

Named as managers and coaches of the squad are Granite City's Coach Kevin Sykes, Dupu's Coach Don King and Dr. Fred Kimbrough of East St. Louis. The three coaches were named by their teams respective standings in the division.

Other athletes named to the West All-Star team include: East Alton's Scott Pearson, catcher, and Richard Kearby, second base; East St. Louis' David McGee, pitcher, and Jim Collins, first base; Dupu's Jim Jarvis, pitcher, and Don King, catcher; Edwardsville's Rod Stenerson, pitcher, and Brian Paddock, shortstop; Highland's Scott Riggs, outfield, and Mark Bosin, pitcher; Troy's Kurt Wright, third base, and Stacy Simmons, pitcher; Alton's Joe Bowman, center field, and Adam Cartwright, second base; Belleville's Brian Stubbs, left field, and Jeff Miller, cut-cher; Bethalto's Jeff Smith, shortstop, and Doug Wooden, catcher-second base; and Greenville's Steve Brauns, pitcher.

At the time of the rankings, the Junior Legion standings were as follows:

Granite City	8-1
Dupo	8-2
E. St. Louis	7-1
Greenville	5-3
Bethalto	3-2
Troy	4-5
Belleville	4-5
Edwardsville	4-4

McDonald's proves too tough for Chiefs' hurlers

By BELINDA CONLEY
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — McDonald's took two games from the Granite City Chiefs in a rain-soaked Inter-City League double header Sunday at Wilson Park.

Although McDonald's pitcher Dennis Kirksey struck out 14 batters, the Chiefs still managed to outpitch McDonald's 11-9 in the first game which the Chiefs lost 7-4. The Chiefs singled four hits in the second game losing, again, this time 6-0.

Kirksey started the game on the wrong foot by walking Chiefs leadoff man Milt Roe. Roe stole second and scored on an error by Kirksey.

McDonald's leadoff hitter Ken Wilson also scored in the first. Wilson singled to right and came home on a double by Dan Patterson.

McDonald's extended their lead in the second, crossing home plate four more times. Steve Ficker led off the inning with a double to left field. Gaylen Harris singled sending Ficker home and then scored on a double by Wilson. Ken Wilson stole third and scored on a wild pitch by Ron Crawford. Crawford walked the next batter, Dan Schaus. Patterson got his second RBI of the night, stop and scored the winning run on a scoring Schaus on a triple down the wild pitch.

The game seemed out of reach for the Chiefs who went into the seventh inning trailing 5-2. Roe singled to start a rally shut out the Chiefs on four hits and for the Chiefs, and scored on a single by Ron Pinkston. Bruce Nation, the next batter up, doubled to right center, and McDonald's Pat Hogan doubled in the second game behind a good pitching performance from Al Yount. Yount struck out the Chiefs on four hits and struck out 11.

McDonald's Pat Hogan doubled in the fourth when the Chiefs defense cost them more runs. With one out, Ken Wilson also singled, stole second, went to third on a double by Steve Ficker, and scored on an error by the shortstop. Ficker scored from second on a single to left by Harris.

McDonald's finished off the Chiefs in the sixth. Pritchard singled for his second hit of the game, stole second and scored on a sacrifice fly by Yount. Ken Wilson also singled, stole second and third. He came home on an error by catcher Nation.

There will be no Inter-City League play next Sunday due to the Fourth of July weekend. Play resumes July 10.

Tri-City Legion diamondmen split weekend pair

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

Larry Corey, manager of the Tri-City American Legion baseball team, knows what it's like to be involved in a one-sided ball game.

Throughout his playing and managing career, he has been on both ends of the score. Last year, as manager of the Glen Carbon American Legion team, he was on the losing end quite often.

Friday, his Triplets were on the winning end of such a game. Tri-City pounded Fairview Heights 21-5 at Granite City North.

Typically, a team that wins big is due for a letdown the next game, and Tri-City was no exception. Highland edged the Triplets 7-6 in eight innings in District 22 North Division game in Highland Saturday and broke Tri-City's four-game winning streak.

The Triplets, 10-4 in District 22 play and 11-5 overall, receive a long-awaited rest this week. Tri-City doesn't play until Friday at Edwardsville.

Friday's game is the type of game neither manager enjoys playing. The losing manager is upset for obvious reason, but the winning manager usually doesn't enjoy these games either.

"I know how it's like to be on the losing end of those games, and I know it isn't fun," Corey said. "However, you've got to let the boys keep on hitting to stay in the groove. I'm not about to ask them to get deliberate out either."

The biggest inning for the Triplets was the first inning. Seventeen Triplets came up to bat and picked up 12 runs on seven hits.

Dave Sheikh started things for Tri-City with a walk, and Rick Dally brought him home with a double. Linhart walked, and Mitchell was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Scott Corey and Rod Hessler both walked and forced in two runs.

A new Fairview Heights pitcher entered the game, but that didn't stop Tri-City. Dan Whitsell drove in two of his five RBIs with a double. Mike Zukas walked to load the bases again, and Sheikh and Kevin Patterson put together two doubles for four more RBIs.

Linhart walked for the second time in the inning, and Mitchell singled. An error allowed Patterson and Linhart to score, and Mitchell scored on Corey's RBI single. That ended the scoring that inning, but the damage had just begun.

In the second inning, Zukas walked and scored on Dally's home run over the left-center field fence.

The Triplets scored thrice in the third. Mitchell and Hessler both walked. Whitsell, who only had five times at bat during the high school season, hit a three-run homer that bounced off the top of the left field fence.

"I really like to bat," Whitsell said. Mitchell was hit by a pitch again in the fourth, went to second on a passed ball and scored Corey's second single.

Two home runs highlighted the fifth inning for Tri-City. Sheikh reached on a fielder's choice and scored on Dally's second home run, a blast over the left field fence. Linhart followed with a similar shot to close the scoring.

Every Triplet scored at least one run, and every Triplet but Zukas had at least one hit.

The game was called because of darkness in the sixth inning. There is no 10-run rule in American Legion baseball.

"I was glad the umpire called the game myself," Corey said.

Zukas picked up the win, pitching the entire six innings. He gave up eight hits, but he struck out four and gave up only two walks.

"We did give a few things that we should not give up in a closer game, but that's to be expected in a game like this," Corey said.

The Triplets were in a much closer game than they wanted to be in Saturday.

Tri-City was trailing 5-1 in the top of the seventh, but the Triplets tied the game to send it into extra innings. Whitsell, Sheikh and Dally all walked, and Linhart cleared the bases with a two-out double. Linhart scored the tying run on Mitchell's triple.

Sheikh scored the go-ahead run in the eighth inning. He doubled and scored on an error.

However, Dally, who took over the pitching duties from Whitsell in the fifth inning, walked in the tying and the winning runs in the bottom of the inning.

Tri-City picked up only six hits against Highland Linhart was 2-for-3. Sheikh was 2-for-4, and Mitchell and Zukas both had hits.

"We came up against some pretty tough pitching and we didn't hit the ball. Highland played a pretty good game," Corey said.

GC wrestlers fare well in Freestyle competition

BETHALTO — Granite City wrestlers fared about as well as the other Illinois-Missouri All-Stars did against winners from the Colorado Freestyle Wrestling Championships Thursday.

Only two Granite City wrestlers of five, Jon Frangoulis and Colin Davis, were winners at the freestyle meet at Brent Memorial High School. The visitors from Colorado dominated the wrestlers from the Metro-East area. No team scores were taken.

Frangoulis won both of his matches at 191 pounds. He edged Mike Zerr of Cherry Creek, Colo., 7-6 in his first decision, and defeated Steve Story 10-2 in the other decision.

Davis, wrestling at 114.5 pounds, only wrestled once, but he downed Brent Vanette of Fowler, Colo., 9-3.

The other Granite City wrestlers weren't quite as fortunate as Frangoulis and Davis. Bruce Widel lost a 7-3 decision to Richard Gladstone of Pueblo, Colo., 7-2 in a 178 pound bout. Lenny Yenegas of Rocky Ford, Colo., beat Jeff Cotter 10-4, and Pete Gladstone pinned Tom Sparks in 1:07.

Rob Milazzo of Roxana was a winner in his bout, while Kip Kristoff of Bethalto, a two-time state champion, lost his bout.

Larry Kristoff, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville wrestling coach, was the meet director.

Wente denies Knepper fifth Tri-City feature win

Steve Knepper of Belleville started ninth in the feature and quickly worked his way to second in the feature Friday night at Tri-City Speedway.

But Terry Wente of St. Louis was determined to keep Knepper from winning his fifth feature at this track. Knepper tried going high and then low, even hitting the guard rail once trying to get past Wente. It just couldn't be done. Terry Wente kept the lead from start to finish while holding off Knepper all the way. Third place went to Mike Wente of St. Louis.

The Sportsman feature was won by Steve Quarterhouse of East Alton. Mark Kruse of Brighton was running second with two laps to go but got sideways while attempting to pass Quarterhouse.

Bert Griffin of East Alton passed Kruse before he got straightened to take second place.

In the Street Stock feature Jim Cox was unhurt when he rolled his car over and landed on his top. The feature winner was the Fosterburg Flash Ed Kunz of Fosterburg, Ill. Dave Novak of Granite City was second. Mini-Sprint feature went to Randy Blackwell of Columbia, Mo. with Skip Miller of Fenton, Mo. second and Neil Nissen of Kirkwood third.

Thursday, July 7, will be the last Late Model show for 1983 when the Busch Late Models come to Tri-City Speedway. Kevin Gundaker is returning to this area to run in this race. Midjets, Sportsman, Street Stocks, and Mini-Sprints race every Friday night.

Refuge archery deer hunt slated for October

For the first time since 1972, the Gardner Division of the Mark Twain National Wildlife Refuge will host a special archery deer hunt this fall on the island refuge in the Mississippi River north of Quincy.

The special hunt, to be held October 19-23, will be open to 250 archers whose permit applications are randomly drawn by computer after an August 5 application deadline date.

Bob Stratton, Mark Twain Refuge Manager, explained that reestablishment of the bow and arrow hunt is a cooperative effort between the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Department of Conservation.

Stratton cited the refuge's high resident deer population as the reason for the bow hunt.

"Although we have permitted firearm hunting on the refuge for the past eight years, the estimated deer population is still too high for the available habitat. By opening the refuge to a limited number of bow hunters in addition to the November firearm hunt, we hope to reduce the herd size, thereby increasing the space and food available for the remaining deer."

Stratton pointed out that the refuge deer hunting programs are used primarily as wildlife management tools and that the resulting recreational opportunities are of secondary importance. "The most important factors are the health of the deer herd and maintaining the unique quality of the refuge habitat," he said.

Forrest Loomis, Department of Conservation Forest

Wildlife Program Manager, said refuge bow hunt applications would be accepted in Springfield from July 1 through the August 5 deadline.

For this special hunt, interested bow hunters have only to send a short note or letter to: Department of Conservation, Lincoln Tower Plaza, 524 Second Street, Springfield, Ill. 62706. No special application form will be necessary.

Loomis stressed, however, that in order to be considered for the special hunt, all applications must write the following on the front of the envelope: Deer Bow Permit — Mark Twain Refuge.

Loomis said that if more than one application is submitted in the same name, all applications in that name for the refuge will be rejected.

Loomis said each applicant must list the hunter's name as shown on his state hunting license, complete address, his 1983 hunting license number and the hunter's 1983 Archery Deer Permit number. Because of this last requirement, hunters will have to apply for and receive a state archery deer permit before applying for the refuge hunt.

Stratton said that once the Department of Conservation has drawn the successful hunters' names, the refuge will notify those people.

The St. Louis Chapter of the NFL Alumni announced the first group of former players committed to participate in the organization's Celebrity Golf Classic, being held July 11 at Forest Hills Country Club.

The current lineup features nine members of pro football's Hall of Fame, including Dick Butkus, Jim Taylor, Elroy Hirsch, Ray Nitschke, Gale Sayers, Bobby Layne, George Blanda, Dick Matson and Tom Fears.

Also participating in the tournament are such former NFL greats as Tommy Nobis, Don Maynard, Dale Gribble, Larry Rasmussen, Norm Snow, Paul Hornung, Bill Bergey, Len Dawson, "Fuzzy" Thurston, Jerry Remy, Art Weisman, Steve Otto, and former Big Ten star Charlie Johnson, who played college football under Coach Bear Bryant. Bob Ewing, John David Crow, Bobby Joe Smith, Jim O'Brien, Baker, Roger Wehrli and Bob McElroy.

A player will captain a team comprised of four non-NFL players. Playing spots are open to the general public, and are available for a $350 tax-deductible entry fee. The entry deadline is June 17.

The St. Louis NFL Alumni event — which will benefit several local, Louisiana youth-oriented charities — is composed of a series of such tournaments conducted in most NFL cities around the country. The winning team of the July 11 event will compete against the winners in the other cities in the Cooper Bowl of "Golf," being held in October in Reno, Nev.

The NFL Alumni tournaments, sponsored nationally by Budweiser, have benefited such charitable organizations as the National Special Olympics, Ronald McDonald House, Boys' Clubs and the Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Foundation.

Last year's St. Louis event netted approximately $300,000 for the four beneficiaries including the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Ronald McDonald House.

and the Kilo Foundation. The tournament is open to spectators at no charge. Entry forms and additional information on participation information on participating in the NFL Alumni Charity Golf Classic may be obtained by calling 314-721-3550.

GRANITE CITY — For the last three and a half years, Mark Lambert dreamed of riding the wilds of the United States.

This summer, he is doing that. Lambert, 34, Dallas, Texas, is now executive in charge of product development for the Lomas and Nettleton Co., stops here Wednesday at the local office of the firm.

Lambert hopes to ride 3,500 miles from Seattle, Wash., to Virginia Beach, Va., in 100 days. So far, he has covered his goal of 100 miles a day and is a day ahead of schedule.

The 25-year-old bachelor started on his trip May 31 and plans to complete the trip July 6. In order to make the most of his riding on vacations the last three years, he's faced the challenges he's facing are worth the wait.

"I am taking this trip largely because I am fascinated by mental and physical challenges, the relationship between the two and the psychology of limits," Lambert said. "Physical challenges are what you really begin to know your potential."

It's just an adventure for now. The adventure is seeing a number of places and people I wouldn't have been able to see otherwise. Going 100 miles a day is an average in the United States.

Presently, Lambert is averaging 108 miles a day at a pace of 12 to 15 miles an hour. He has 143 miles left to go. He has 143 miles one day, but he has to travel less than 100 miles in any one day.

Arriving at Granite City was the second of three goals he set for his trip. The first goal was arriving in Denver. Crossing the Mississippi River to Illinois was the second goal, but the ultimate goal is to reach the Gulf of Mexico.

"Denver was a big goal because that was the end of the mountain ranges. Granite City is another goal because it meant I've gone through seven state and I have seven more to go. I'm more

Arrested twice within 2 hours

Joseph L. Vandergriff, 25, of 2421 Adams St., was charged with disorderly conduct last week following an incident at the home of Karen Lindsey, 2411 Adams, in which he allegedly threatened, screamed and yelled at Mrs. Lindsey's son, Craig.

Vandergriff left a few moments later and then returned to the Lindsey dwelling and allegedly began swinging an axe handle at another son, Harry, 17, who was riding his bicycle.

Several neighbors were out on porches when officers arrived and complained of noise. Vandergriff was arrested, but was released a short time later upon posting a $52 cash bond.

Two hours later, Jack Rogers, 2440 Adams St., alleged to police that Vandergriff was playing a radio so loud "you can hear it a block away." The time was 1:25 a.m.

Officers reported having been to the Vandergriff residence four times prior to this call and each time had told the man to be quiet and go inside or face arrest. He again arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

A 16-year-old girl at the dwelling allegedly began screaming at the arresting officers and refused to be quiet. She also was taken to custody, charged with disorderly conduct and released to her father on notice to appear in court.

Vandergriff was released the second time after posting another $52 cash bond.

CASH, STAMPS ARE STOLEN FROM HOME

While Vickie Parker, 405 Madison Ave., Madison, was at a residence in the 1600 block of Spruce Street last week, her purse, containing $180 cash, $122 worth of food stamps and several checks, was stolen from a bedroom dresser.

Two young women were at the house earlier and had been in the bathroom, she said. Some time later, the elderly purse was located in the attic, which is accessible from the bathroom, reports noted.

ARRESTED ON TWO CHARGES

After investigating a suspicious auto stopped at West Pontoon Road and Colonial Drive, the police arrested Boyd Clark, 23, of 2935 Myrtle Ave., at 9:45 p.m. Thursday on a warrant and charged him with not having a driver's license and failure to pay a fine. Bail was set at $52 and he was released at 10:30 p.m.

VANDALS ACTIVE

Five windows at the Venice School gymnasium were shot by vandals and an attempt also was made to remove an enclosed air conditioning unit, it was reported at 8:10 a.m. Saturday.

Faces charges, including DUI

Raymond A. Sheely Jr., 19, of 2405 Kilarney Ave., sustained an injury at 12:05 a.m. Sunday when the car he was driving north struck a parked vehicle outside the home of John A. Blattner, 2321 Washington Ave.

Sheely told police an unidentified vehicle ran his car off the road, causing him to strike the Blattner auto.

Immediately after the accident, Sheely allegedly threw a partially-full can of beer into the yard at 2313 Washington. A container was recovered, reports stated.

Inside the auto, it was alleged, a cooler holding cans of beer was partly open on the front floorboards. Other beer cans were on the vehicle's rear floor, reports said.

Sheely agreed to take a breathalyzer test. Later, he was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, illegal transportation of alcohol and being a minor in possession of alcohol. He was released upon posting a $102 cash bond and his driver's license.

MAN ARRESTED AS HE WAITS FOR RELATIVE

A St. Louis man was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting a peace officer after he allegedly continued to use profane language at Madison police headquarters last week, where he was waiting for a relative who had been arrested.

Police said that Donald J. Overturf, 29, was waiting for Paul C. Overturf, 33, also of St. Louis, when the incidents occurred. Police said they warned Donald Overturf three times not to use profane language concerning an incident in which three youths said they had a beer bottle thrown at them.

As he was walking out the door, he allegedly continued to yell obscenities and was arrested. Police allege that they had to physically restrain Overturf in order to arrest him.

Paul Overturf was arrested after the youths said he threw a beer bottle at them. They said he was riding in a car driven by Donald Overturf when he shouted at them and then threw the bottle in the 500 block of Madison Avenue.

CONTESTANT

Mia Louise Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins of Madison, will be competing for the title of Miss Teen of Illinois in Bloomington, Ill., July 7 to 9. She is being sponsored by Southern Baptist Church and Sunday School.

The pageant utilizes six judging divisions, scholastic record, service and achievement, personal development, poise and appearance, judges' interviews and general awareness.

Charge Affton man with DUI

Charles D. Vogt, 45, of Affton, Mo., was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and violating a traffic signal light when arrested last week after turning into a motel lot at 19th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue.

A police sergeant was advised by a passing motorist that a silver Ford without a license, traveling on Niedringhaus, allegedly "ran him off the road," along with two other vehicles.

Seeing the vehicle go through a red light at 19th and Niedringhaus and turn into a motel, the officer talked with the driver, Vogt.

The latter declined to take a breathalyzer test and was arrested. He was released upon posting a $302 cash bond.

News Notes

Madison County residents are being urged to take precautions against mosquito and tick bites, due to the discovery of encephalitis and Rocky Mountain spotted fever in the county. An 8-year-old boy died of spotted fever recently after it is believed he was bitten by a tick. Testing of blood samples from birds during May shows the potential for human cases of St. Louis encephalitis later this summer, especially in the southern third of the state. The Illinois Department of Public Health is urging persons to eliminate all small pools of standing water, such as in old tires, which serve as breeding sites for the Culex mosquitoes.

A bill approved by the Illinois House on a 67-49 vote Thursday and sent on to the Senate would boost the minimum wage by $1.05 an hour over the next 18 months. The bill matches the federal rate of $3.35 an hour by Jan. 1985, for adults and $2.85 an hour for employees under age 18. A second bill eliminating discrimination in minimum wage laws on the basis of sex or handicap passed the House on a vote of 106-10 and goes to the Senate.

More than $1.3 million will be used this summer to plant about 950 Illinois youths to work in state parks in an Illinois Conservation Corps program. Governor James R. Thompson said the federally funded program will be run by the state Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and Conservation.

Illinois has received a federal waiver that will assist the state in funding in-home care for the aged and physically impaired, according to Governor Thompson. Under the waiver from the Department of Health and Human Services, Illinois will be reimbursed by the federal government for half the funds spent to provide in-home care services, which had previously been paid for entirely with state dollars. In-home health care services, such as nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy, and other services, are provided by the state Department of Aging and Rehabilitation Services, help prevent individuals from being placed in nursing homes and other institutions when care could be provided in individual homes.

More than $190,000 in Community Service Block Grant and Comprehensive Employment and Training assistance funds were used by 251 economically disadvantaged students as scholarships for training in high technology fields, the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs announced last week. Ten community action agencies and 19 community colleges across the state are participating in the two-semester pilot program.

ARMENIAN LEADER ARRIVAL SCHEDULED

His Holiness Karekin II, Catholicos of the Holy See of Cilicia of Antelias, Lebanon, is expected to arrive at Lambert St. Louis International Airport at 10:37 a.m. Wednesday, and not 11:45 a.m. as reported earlier. Catholicos Karekin II is elected at St. Gregory the Illuminator Armenian Apostolic Church, 1732 Maple St., at about noon to conduct services.

She teaches students at The Well, and is a senior dance major at SIUE where she also teaches a class in ballet.

SERVE WARRANTS ON EAST ST. LOUISAN

Tyrene Ashford, 24, of East St. Louis, was taken in custody by a Granite City police sergeant at East St. Louis police headquarters last week on warrants alleging failure to appear in court on unlawful use of a weapon and traffic charges. All related to a 1981 case.

In a court appearance later the same day, Ashford pleaded innocent to the weapons charge and charges of speeding, attempting to elude police and reckless driving. A cash bond of $800 was set.

Cataracts to worsen
Cataracts are expected to become even more prevalent with the general increase in life expectancy. In the developing countries the estimated total of 13 million people who are blind due to cataracts may swell to 30 million by the year 2000 unless efficient, full-scale treatment programs reach all rural areas.
